Voter Apathy Is Noted in Ohio Election

20 Pct. Turnout Said Typical for Odd-Year Trek to Ballot Booth

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohioans stayed away from the polls by the thousands Tuesday, despite cheerful spring weather for the state's odd-year primary elections.

The light turnout had been expected, however, since, with a few exceptions, major issues and heated races for office were lacking.

All polling places heard from by early today reported light voting, including Columbus where the slightly better than 20 per cent showup appeared to be typical.

In Circleville, with a population of 12,400, only 391 voters turned out for the lone contest — Republican nomination of a city solicitor. Poll officials estimated it cost the county $8 per ballot for Marshall Douthett, fledgling attorney, to unseat the city's incumbent legal adviser, Kenneth Robbins. Douthett will be unopposed in the November general election.

In addition to primary races in many cities for mayoral and council nominations, also at stake were numerous bond and levy proposals, most of them for schools.

In Hamilton County, West Clermont School District voters backed a whopping 11.1-mill operating levy 2,381-1,582 and in the Batavia district an operating levy of 9.4 mills won approval, 387-44. West Clermont voters rejected, however, a proposed $1770,000 bond issue for new classrooms, 2,051-1,914.

In Clark County's Mad River-Green Local School District, a $695,000 bond issue for construction and repairs went down to defeat for the third straight time. The vote was 693-649, short of the needed 60 per cent majority.

Mad River-Green Local voters also turned down an additional 2-mill operating levy School Board officials said both proposals will be submitted for a fourth time in the November election.

Another defeated proposal was a $900,000 bond issue in Montgomery County's West Carrollton district to finance construction of a new elementary school. The vote against the issue was 1,302-1,024.

Reily School District voters in Butler County reconsidered a 3-mill school operating levy they had defeated twice previously. In the face of a warning the district would lose its high school charter, they backed the levy Tuesday, 249-18.

Included among various other matters were Cambridge's passage of a 1-mill increase in its present 2-mill levy to operate the city fire department and Urbana's rejection of a proposal to set up a commission to write a city charter.

'Copter Rescues Man from Tower

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—An Air Force helicopter that flew down from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio, rescued an injured man from the top of a water tower at nearby Fort Thomas Tuesday.

Curtis C. Marshall, 39, painting firm workman from Indianapolis, was reported in good condition at St. Luke Hospital Tuesday night after his rescue and surgery. Hospital aides said he suffered a compound fracture of his left wrist in a fall inside the empty tower.

The Air Force helicopter was called after police and fire officials found they could not lower Marshall from the tower. Marshall was strapped in an invalid bag which the helicopter plucked from the tower.

Investigators said Marshall apparently fell after a wire ladder rung broke.

Douthett Wins Solicitor Bid; Assured of Post in November

Marshall (Bud) Douthett won the Republican nomination for city solicitor in yesterday's primary, assuring himself of the office in the November election. The Democrat Party has no candidate for the post.

Douthett, a comparative newcomer to the political scene here, won with 204 votes. Kenneth Robbins, his incumbent opponent, received 183.

Of the 15 precincts voting in the city, Douthett carried eight. But a whopping majority of 40 votes in 1-G, one of the last polling places reporting, swung the nomination to Douthett.

Robbins biggest majority was 10 votes in precincts 2-A and 4-A.

A NATIVE of Butler, Pa., Douthett has lived in Circleville since 1959. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Breaden B. Douthett of Butler, Pa.

Following a four-year hitch in the U. S. Navy, he attended and was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware.

While in college Douthett was a member of Beta Theta Pi social fraternity and president of Circle K college Kiwanis Club. Upon graduation he was employed by Owens-Illinois Glass Co. as a sales trainee in Cincinnati.

He entered the College of Law at Ohio State University while employed at Cincinnati. Last June he was graduated from OSU and in October he was admitted to the Ohio Bar.

A total of 391 Republican voters turned out for yesterday's primary election in Circleville to determine the GOP candidate for city solicitor.

Of the total votes cast, Marshall Douthett received 204. His incumbent opponent, Kenneth Robbins received 183 giving Douthett the slot on the November ballot.

Voting was extremely light at all precincts. However 1-G had a total of 85 to cast ballots although one was turned in blank. The precinct listing the least number of voters was 4-B with only seven.

Precinct workers began turning in their tallies about 6:45 p. m. All voting places had reported in to the Board of Elections office at 7:40 p. m.

TABULATING the votes were Frank Marion, Ned Dresbach, Lucille Dumm and Milton Manson, all board members and Mrs. Thelma Trimmer, clerk.

Complimentary votes cast for unopposed GOP candidates were: Richard W. Penn, for mayor, 306; Marvene Turner, for auditor, 268; Joe F. Bell, councilman-at-large, 260; Ed C. Ebert, councilman-at-large, 244; Robert G. Smith, councilman-at-large, 252; Frank Barnhill Jr., councilman of the First Ward, 275; and Robert J. Good, councilman of the Fourth Ward, 30.

Fired Employee Bares Ambush

CLEVELAND (AP)—A charge of shooting with intent to kill was expected to be filed today against Page Washington, 57, for the shotgun attack on Joseph M. Schaefer, vice president of Interior Steel Equipment Co.

Schaefer, 51, remains in critical condition at Polyclinic Hospital from the April 25 shooting. He was ambushed as he drove toward the company plant and his car plunged down a ramp and crashed into a loading dock. He suffered shotgun pellet wounds in the face and neck.

Washington, a former employee fired two years ago, was arrested Tuesday. Lt. Carl Delau, head of the homicide unit, quoted Washington as saying:

"I'm the guy you want. I got fired because I was mad. I got fired and couldn't get a job since."

He was reelected to the office in 1961.

Robbins is a graduate of McArthur High School, a 1940 graduate of Ohio State University College of Law and opened practice in Circleville in 1944. He was elected county prosecutor in 1944 and served one term.

British Spy Is Chided in Moscow Trial

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet co-defendant of confessed British spy Greville Wynne disputed today the Briton's claim that he was only a courier for the information the Russian collected for Britain and the United States.

"He was not only a messenger. Wynne must not minimize his role," former Soviet scientific official Oleg Penkovsky told the military court in the second day of the Soviet show trial.

Apparently reading from notes, Penkovsky said Wynne had constantly discussed espionage activities with him and coached him in identifying various British and American diplomats he had to contact.

Wynne appeared to change his claim somewhat when one of the three Soviet army judges then asked him if he still felt he only served as a messenger.

"Chiefly, I was to help Penkovsky during his stay in London," Wynne replied clearly and firmly. "My actual role I did not fully realize until I came here."

Wynne, 42, a businessman who represented British engineering firms on trips to the Soviet Union, admitted Tuesday that he brought packages to Penkovsky and delivered packages from him to British consular officer Roderick Chisholm and to Chisholm's wife. Wynne contended he did not know that the packages for the Russian contained espionage instructions and equipment, and that the packages he received contained exposed film.

Vatican Is Alarmed By Pope's Health

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Amid reports that the health of Pope John XXIII has worsened, L'Osservatore Romano said today the Pope will not make visits late this month to Montecassino and Pompeii as planned.

The Pope held his weekly general audience today in St. Peter's Basilica. Persons who were present said he did not look well.

Rome's independent Il Tempo said the 81-year-old pontiff, who was seriously ill last fall with anemia and a stomach disorder, had suffered a relapse Tuesday that caused alarm in the Vatican.

Il Tempo said that Tuesday night Pope John showed improvement. But the newspaper said his doctors might caution him to curtail his heavy program.

Armed State Troopers Called to Birmingham

FORCE OF 'ARMS' — An unidentified Negro is stopped by a police officer in Birmingham, Ala., during a series of anti-segregation protests. Shortly afterwards, Gov. George Wallace ordered 250 State Highway patrolmen into the racially-torn city.

Negroes Push Demonstrations

Integration Leaders Pledge New Displays

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Heavily armed state troopers swarmed into this racial trouble spot today, ready to aid Birmingham officers facing their seventh day of massive Negro demonstrations.

Gov. George Wallace, a militant segregationist, announced Tuesday he was ordering 250 riot-trained highway patrolmen to Birmingham.

State Public Safety Director Al Lingo said early today, however, that the number was being stepped up to 575 troopers, virtually the entire manpower of the state agency.

Lingo said the troopers were under the direct orders of Wallace. They are equipped with tear gas grenades, riot guns, carbines and sub-machine guns, he said.

In the face of this development, integration leader the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. said: "This movement is getting bigger and bigger. There'll be no stopping until we move segregation from the city."

Goals of the campaign, King has said, include desegregation of downtown public facilities such as lunch counters, rest rooms and water fountains; better employment opportunities for Negroes; establishment of a biracial committee on racial problems; and dropping of charges against all Negroes arrested for picketing, parading and other demonstrations.

King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, spoke at a jammed mass meeting in a Negro church in the wake of (Continued on Page 2)

New Disposal Plant Move Is Approved by City Council

The thorny problem of whether Circleville will commit itself to erect a new sewage disposal plant consumed a large portion of last night's regular council session.

After considerable discussion, a resolution authorizing Circleville's Board of Public Utilities to contract for preparation of new plant plans was approved. The measure was adopted on its third reading.

Readings at two earlier meetings failed to bring about a suspension of rules necessary for immediate enactment. First indications last night were that the resolution would be tabled.

However, the tide turned after lengthy discussion and the measure was adopted on a 6-0 vote. Councilman Boyd Horn, apparently critical of the large outlay of funds, refused to vote.

The city currently is conducting its sewage disposal operation on a temporary permit granted by the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board. This permit expires May 15.

THE STATE board for the past several years has decreed that Circleville must further reduce the pollution load discharged into the Scioto River, noting that present facilities are inadequate.

Temporary renewal permits for dumping hinge on improvement measures the city is willing to undertake.

Two improvement proposals have been under study here for several months. One calls for construction of a new plant at a new site and the other for expansion of present facilities.

The utilities board and Council's Service Committee have already recommended a new plant be built if the city must be forced to improve its facilities. Both expressed the need for long range planning rather than a partial expansion project.

Last night's enactment authorizes the utilities board to enter into a contract with Burgess & Niple Engineers for preparation of plans for the new plant. Councilmen Robert Smith and Charles Kirkpatrick commented that to further oppose the measure will only delay an action the city will ultimately be forced to take.

It was pointed out that the city could be held in contempt if it refuses to take improvement action as directed by the Ohio Pollution Control Board.

Engineering estimates have indicated a new plant will cost in the neighborhood of $950,000. Expansion of present facilities has been estimated at $550,000.

NATO Nuclear Force Pact Agreement Seen in Offing

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials said today an allied agreement to create a multilateral NATO nuclear force armed with Polaris missiles on surface ships may be ready for signing by the time President Kennedy visits Europe late next month.

Spokesmen for the West German government announced Tuesday that West Germany had dropped its objections to using surface ships instead of submarines as carriers for the nuclear warhead missiles.

The whole project, initiated by the United States, had appeared in doubt earlier this year because of strong European opposition to building a surface fleet. Allied governments interested in the force had understood that Polaris submarines would be the missile carriers.

When the United States in effect switched signals early this year and came out for surface vessels, the first allied reaction in Europe was negative. The allies felt that surface ships would be far more vulnerable. For a time, this was substantially the West German view.

In recent weeks, President Kennedy's special negotiator, Ambassador Livingston T. Merchant and naval experts have concentrated on building up the U.S. case for surface ships—a fleet which could be developed quicker and cheaper than submarines.

For a week or so U.S. officials have understood that German experts finally had agreed that wide dispersion and frequent shifting of the Polaris surface ships around the coasts of Western Europe would provide about all the protection necessary for the vessels.

As presently conceived, on the basis of known allied interest, the fleet of perhaps 200 ships with a total of perhaps 200 missiles would be a jointly owned and manned eight-nation force under NATO direction and military control. In effect, participation would give West Germany and the other countries taking part a voice in nuclear strategy and a finger on the nuclear trigger.

The eight nations are the United States, Britain, West Germany, Italy, Greece, Turkey, the Netherlands and Belgium.

Pranks Jolt Old Princeton

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—Only an occasional firecracker broke the stillness Tuesday night in this university town where Princeton students had gone on their most destructive springtime rampage in a decade.

One sobering factor was an announcement by Dr. Robert Goheen, university president, that the student body will pay for all damage caused by the nearly 2,000 undergraduates who rioted during the wee hours Tuesday. Damage estimates run to several thousand dollars.

During three hectic and destructive hours, the rioters ripped up, bent, burned or pushed over just about everything in their path on the campus, in town, at nearby Westminster Choir College, and even tossed fireworks onto the lawn of the New Jersey Governor's Mansion. Fourteen students were arrested as disorderly persons.

Cleveland Negro Surgeon Honored

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Academy of Medicine has named a Negro surgeon, Dr. Middleton Lambright Jr., president-elect.

Dr. Lambright was elected on the first ballot Tuesday night. He will become president next year, succeeding Dr. William E. Forsyth, who takes office May 17.

Dr. Lambright is a vice president of the academy and has been a trustee for nine years. In addition to his surgical practice, he teaches at Western Reserve University.

He is a trustee of Forest City Hospital, which his father helped found.

Nebraskan Voted No. 1 Mom of U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Olga Pearson Engdahl of Omaha, Neb., outpointed aspirants from the 50 states today for the coveted Mother of the Year award.

The handsome 67-year-old mother of seven, blue-eyed and gray-haired, was selected by the American Mothers Committee Inc.

Mrs. Engdahl and her husband, John S. Engdahl, both natives of Nebraska, were present when the announcement was made. They have six sons, one daughter and 14 grandchildren.

Engdahl is founder and president of the Engdahl Top and Body Co., which he said is the oldest automobile body firm in Nebraska.

Three of their sons are officers in the company. Another is a doctor, one is a trust officer at the Omaha National Bank, and the sixth is associated with the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The daughter is married to a Scotsbluff, Neb., lumberman. Mrs. Engdahl is a charter member of Trinity Lutheran Church where she has served as organist, Sunday School teacher and president of the Women's Auxiliary.

Mrs. Engdahl, who was presented a large bouquet of American beauty roses, said "I have been blessed by God with seven wonderful children and a loving husband. I will try to live up to the title of Mother of the Year."

"I think she always was wonderful and she is worth it," Engdahl said. "She was the nicest girl in town and still is."

The couple has been married 47 years.

Compensation Upheld For Injury on Spree

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court refused today to review decisions awarding workmen's compensation to a store manager injured on a trip won as a sales prize.

The state had denied compensation to James W. Beck, manager of an Isaly dairy store in Youngstown. He was injured Oct. 17, 1958, in an automobile accident on the way to New Orleans La., on a company-paid trip.

Lower courts of Mahoning County held for Beck and the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation appealed on grounds Beck was not on company business at the time.

Revenge Is Taken on Modern Art

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gus Brady and Henry Retzlaff Jr. got their revenge on modern art this week.

Two years ago, Brady said, he "worked myself to death for about three months" painting an entry for the Arkansas Regional Art Show, supposed to contain representational pictures of Arkansas scenes.

A work of modern art won it. This year Brady teamed up with Retzlaff—they are commercial artists who work together—and entered a piece called, perhaps with logic, "Experimentation into the Realm of Nocturnal Schizophrenic Endeavors."

The "art" was done at night, without any lights, on a 4x6-foot piece of wallboard.

The two stood the board on an outside wall, placed a 10-foot ladder in front of it and started "painting." Brady backed off and threw paint at the board. Retzlaff brushed.

The only real endeavor in the piece came in the selection of colors.

"We got purple for depth, orange for bright, and pink," Brady said. The pink turned out beige on the panel.

They used oil-based and water-based paint and when they tired throwing paint, they used sand. Then they doused the whole thing with a bucket of water. It took them 30 minutes.

To observe their handiwork, the two drove a car behind the building where the panel was, and turned its headlights on the piece.

"We got some interesting effects," Brady said. "We liked it." The work, among 220 entries, was placed in the top 12, got an honorable mention. First prize went to another painting—also an abstraction.

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet co-defendant of confessed British spy Greville Wynne disputed today the Briton's claim that he was only a courier for the information the Russian collected for Britain and the United States.

"He was not only a messenger, Wynne must not minimize his role," former Soviet scientific official Oleg Penkovsky told the military court in the second day of the Soviet show trial.

Apparently reading from notes, Penkovsky said Wynne had constantly discussed espionage activities with him and coached him in identifying various British and American diplomats he had to contact.

Wynne appeared to change his claim somewhat when one of the three Soviet army judges then asked him if he still felt he only served as a messenger.

"Chiefly, I was to help Penkovsky during his stay in London," Wynne replied clearly and firmly. "My actual role I did not fully realize until I came here."

Wynne, 42, a businessman who represented British engineering firms on trips to the Soviet Union, admitted Tuesday that he brought packages to Penkovsky and delivered packages from him to British consular officer Roderick Chisholm and to Chisholm's wife.

Wynne contended he did not know that the packages for the Russian contained espionage instructions and equipment, and that the packages he received contained exposed film.

Vatican Is Alarmed By Pope's Health

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Amid reports that the health of Pope John XXIII has worsened, L'Osservatore Romano said today the Pope will not make visits late this month to Montecassino and Pompeii as planned.

The Pope held his weekly general audience today in St. Peter's Basilica. Persons who were present said he did not look well.

Rome's independent Il Tempo said the 81-year-old pontiff, who was seriously ill last fall with anemia and a stomach disorder, had suffered a relapse Tuesday that caused alarm in the Vatican.

Il Tempo said that Tuesday night Pope John showed improvement. But the newspaper said his doctors might caution him to curtail his heavy program.

Armed State Troopers Called to Birmingham

FORCE OF 'ARMS' — An unidentified Negro is stopped by a police officer in Birmingham, Ala., during a series of anti-segregation protests. Shortly afterwards, Gov. George Wallace ordered 250 State Highway patrolmen into the racially-torn city.

Negroes Push Demonstrations

Integration Leaders Pledge New Displays

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Heavily armed state troopers swarmed into this racial trouble spot today, ready to aid Birmingham officers facing their seventh day of massive Negro demonstrations.

Gov. George Wallace, a militant segregationist, announced Tuesday he was ordering 250 riot-trained highway patrolmen to Birmingham.

State Public Safety Director Al Lingo said early today, however, that the number was being stepped up to 575 troopers, virtually the entire manpower of the state agency.

Lingo said the troopers were under the direct orders of Wallace. They are equipped with tear gas grenades, riot guns, carbines and sub-machine guns, he said.

In the face of this development, integration leader the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. said: "This movement is getting bigger and bigger. There'll be no stopping until we move segregation from the city."

Goals of the campaign, King has said, include desegregation of downtown public facilities such as lunch counters, rest rooms and water fountains; better employment opportunities for Negroes; establishment of a biracial committee on racial problems; and dropping of charges against all Negroes arrested for picketing, parading and other demonstrations.

King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, spoke at a jammed mass meeting in a Negro church in the wake of (Continued on Page 2)

Nebraskan Voted No. 1 Mom of U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Olga Pearson Engdahl of Omaha, Neb., outpointed aspirants from the 50 states today for the coveted Mother of the Year award.

The handsome 67-year-old mother of seven, blue-eyed and gray-haired, was selected by the American Mothers Committee Inc.

Mrs. Engdahl and her husband, John S. Engdahl, both natives of Nebraska, were present when the announcement was made. They have six sons, one daughter and 14 grandchildren.

Engdahl is founder and president of the Engdahl Top and Body Co., which he said is the oldest automobile body firm in Nebraska.

Three of her sons are officers in the company. Another is a doctor, one is a trust officer at the Omaha National Bank, and the sixth is associated with the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The daughter is married to a Scotsbluff, Neb., lumberman.

Mrs. Engdahl is a charter member of Trinity Lutheran Church where she has served as organist, Sunday School teacher and president of the Women's Auxiliary.

Mrs. Engdahl, who was presented a large bouquet of American beauty roses, said "I have been blessed by God with seven wonderful children and a loving husband. I will try to live up to the title of Mother of the Year."

"I think she always was wonderful and she is worth it," Engdahl said. "She was the nicest girl in town and still is."

The couple has been married 47 years.

Compensation Upheld For Injury on Spree

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court refused today to review decisions awarding workmen's compensation to a store manager injured on a trip won as a sales prize.

The state had denied compensation to James W. Beck, manager of an Italy dairy store in Youngstown. He was injured Oct. 17, 1958, in an automobile accident on the way to New Orleans La., on a company-paid trip.

Lower courts of Mahoning County held for Beck and the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation appealed on grounds Beck was not on company business at the time.

New Disposal Plant Move Is Approved by City Council

The thorny problem of whether Circleville will commit itself to erect a new sewage disposal plant the Scioto River, noting that present facilities are inadequate.

Temporary renewal permits for dumping hinge on improvement measures the city is willing to undertake.

Two improvement proposals have been under study here for several months. One calls for construction of a new plant at a new site and the other for expansion of present facilities.

The utilities board and Council's Service Committee have already recommended a new plant be built if the city must be forced to improve its facilities. Both expressed the need for long range planning rather than a partial expansion project.

Last night's enactment authorizes the utilities board to enter into a contract with Burgess & Niple Engineers for preparation of plans for the new plant. Councilmen Robert Smith and Charles Kirkpatrick commented that to further oppose the measure will only delay an action the city will ultimately be forced to take.

It was pointed out that the city could be held in contempt if it refuses to take improvement action as directed by the Ohio Pollution Control Board.

Engineering estimates have indicated a new plant will cost in the neighborhood of $950,000. Expansion of present facilities has been estimated at $550,000.

NATO Nuclear Force Pact Agreement Seen in Offing

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials said today an allied agreement to create a multilateral NATO nuclear force armed with Polaris missiles on surface ships may be ready for signing by the time President Kennedy visits Europe late next month.

Spokesmen for the West German government announced Tuesday that West Germany had dropped its objections to using surface ships instead of submarines as carriers for the nuclear warhead missiles.

The whole project, initiated by the United States, had appeared in doubt earlier this year because of strong European opposition to building a surface fleet. Allied governments interested in the force had understood that Polaris submarines would be the missile carriers.

When the United States in effect switched signals early this year and came out for surface vessels, the first allied reaction in Europe

Pranks Jolt Old Princeton

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—Only an occasional firecracker broke the stillness Tuesday night in this university town where Princeton students had gone on their most destructive springtime rampage in a decade.

One sobering factor was an announcement by Dr. Robert Goheen, university president, that the student body will pay for all damage caused by the nearly 2,000 undergraduates who rioted during the wee hours Tuesday. Damage estimates run to several thousand dollars.

During three hectic and destructive hours, the rioters ripped up, burned or pushed over just about everything in their path on the campus, in town, at nearby Westminster Choir College, and even tossed fireworks onto the lawn of the New Jersey Governor's Mansion. Fourteen students were arrested as disorderly persons.

Cleveland Negro Surgeon Honored

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Academy of Medicine has named a Negro surgeon, Dr. Middleton Lambright Jr., president-elect.

Dr. Lambright was elected on the first ballot Tuesday night. He will become president next year, succeeding Dr. William E. Forsyth, who takes office May 17.

Dr. Lambright is a vice president of the academy and has been a trustee for nine years. In addition to his surgical practice, he teaches at Western Reserve University.

He is a trustee of Forest City Hospital, which his father helped found.

Other cases on the city court traffic docket included the following:

James Devall, 26, Little Sandy, Ky.; $44 bond forfeiture for driving at a speed greater than reasonable and proper.

Solons Study Laws To Restrict Sale Of Red Products

Proposed ordinances limiting the sale of communist manufactured merchandise and restrictions on door-to-door soliciting and going out of business sales were focal points in last night's regular Council session.

The communist merchandise matter stemmed from a letter directed to Council by the local Hall - Adkins American Legion Post. The post has requested proper legislation be enacted to curb such sales in the city.

There was no indication in the letter that Red goods were being sold here. However, Legion officials noted that such legislation would serve as a preventive measure.

Dr. Robert Smith's suggestion that the solicitor be directed to prepare an appropriate ordinance was approved by the solons. Columbus and other Ohio cities already have enacted similar legislation.

THE DEBATE on door-to-door canvassing was prompted by a letter from Blenn Stevenson, Pinckney St. He urged proper laws to control such practices.

The letter noted that outside salesmen should be required to report their intentions with local police, be licensed and reasonable hours for their activities be established.

Solicitor Kenneth Robbins reminded that the city already has an ordinance designed to control soliciting in general. However, the law was declared unconstitutional in Circleville Municipal Court several days ago. Similar cases also have been held unconstitutional in other courts across the land.

Robbins said he personally feels a controlling ordinance is needed — other than outlawing soliciting altogether. He was directed, on Councilman Joe Bell's suggestion, to outline such a measure for future action.

Controls on liquidation sales have been advocated by the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber has based its stand on numerous consumer complaints here regarding going out of business sales.

Robbins agreed to research the matter, with intentions of preparing appropriate legislation.

IN OTHER business the lawmakers approved a motion calling for renewal of fire protection contracts between the city and Circleville.

Robert Call Named to Chamber Unit

The Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce appointed Robert N. Call to the membership committee during its meeting yesterday.

Call replaces Douglas Cotterman, who recently moved to Athens, as a director of the chamber. The membership drive will be completed this week.

In other business conducted, the brochure on Circleville was approved by the public affairs and public relations committees and forwarded to the printers.

It was also announced that the "Welcome to Circleville" signs on Route 23 north and south of the city had been completely refurbished.

The sign north has been relocated, and shrubbery donated by the Pickaway County Garden Club will be moved to the new location as quickly as possible.

Approval was given for Mrs. E. R. Bennett to attend the Staff Institute in Columbus May 24.

Negroes Push

a day during which thousands of Negroes infiltrated the downtown business district and milled about the streets in the heart of the city.

Fire hoses again were brought into play to disperse the crowds.

Police appeared almost powerless at times to cope with the surging masses, but there were no serious incidents.

Authorities said at least 10 policemen were injured, none seriously. Most were struck by thrown rocks.

There were no confirmed reports of any negroes being injured.

Arrests total more than 2,400, including approximately 1,000 juveniles.

Authorities today began releasing the youngsters to the custody of their parents. Nearly 300 had been released by mid-morning. Several hundred adults also have been released on bond.

There were these other developments:

—President Kennedy and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy kept in close touch with the situation. The President said he hoped that the racial problems could be solved by the people of Birmingham.

—Gov. Wallace, in a speech before the Alabama Legislature, threatened murder prosecutions if the Negro demonstrations result in violence and death. The governor said he would take whatever action necessary to preserve law and order—perhaps including calling out National Guard troops, although there was no official word in this.

—The White House reported that a Justice Department representative had succeeded in bringing Negro and white leaders together in Birmingham for their first meeting on the racial problem.

—Former baseball star Jackie Robinson said at New York that he plans to visit Birmingham within the next week or two to take part in the mass protest.

—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, called on NAACP branches throughout the country to conduct "peaceful sympathy picketing" in support of the Birmingham demonstrations.

Commission Seeks Court Approval To Hire Counsel

Pickaway County's Board of Commissioners has filed application with Common Pleas Court to employ a Cleveland law firm.

The county heads are asking the court's approval to employ the firm of Squire, Sanders and Dempsey to prepare and supervise initial proceedings concerning the issuance of notes for the financing of Improvement No. 1 in the Ashville-Teays Valley Storm Sewer District.

Commissioners Clyde Michel, Lloyd Melvin and Wayne Hines are also asking the court's approval for the payment of a $400 fee in compensation for the legal firm's counsel.

ATHEENS, Ohio (AP)—Attempts to stop Communist speakers in this country unduly magnify the extent of their strength in the minds of others, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas says.

Douglas, here for a lecture at Ohio University, told a news conference Tuesday that Americans are inadvertently raising the prestige of communism by preventing them from speaking freely.

"In Italy, France, India and other countries where Communists are permitted to speak their minds openly, their effectiveness is almost negligible," he said.

"The only real strength world communism has found is in the rumors we spread about it."

U.N. Council, OAS Slated To Hear Hispaniola Dispute

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The immediate threat of war between the Dominican Republic and Haiti broke relations to recede today but tension remained high.

The Organization of American States and the U.N. Security Council called meetings today to discuss the situation between the Caribbean neighbors sharing the island of Hispaniola 50 miles from Cuba.

The Security Council was expected to leave it to the OAS.

Dominican President Juan Bosch called Haiti's dictator President Francois Duvalier "a madman." Tuesday night in a radio-television statement on the crisis, but indicated he is moving cautiously.

Bosch said if the United States found the crisis grave enough to order the evacuation of U.S. citizens from Haiti, "we shall continue to think the problem is more serious for us."

"We have to be careful and vigilant," he declared. This seemed to hint at a state of alert rather than full-scale mobilization or any intention of imminent military action against the Duvalier regime.

Earlier Tuesday Bosch demanded that all 22 Duvalier opponents in the Dominican Embassy in Port au Prince be allowed to leave the country, but set no deadline. Previously the Dominican government had accepted the Haitian promise that 15 would be

Proposed ordinances limiting the sale of communist manufactured merchandise and restrictions on door-to-door soliciting and going out of business sales were focal points in last night's regular Council session.

The communist merchandise matter stemmed from a letter directed to Council by the local Hall-Adkins American Legion Post. The post has requested proper legislation be enacted to curb such sales in the city.

There was no indication in the letter that Red goods were being sold here. However, Legion officials noted that such legislation would serve as a preventive measure.

Dr. Robert Smith's suggestion that the solicitor be directed to prepare an appropriate ordinance was approved by the solons. Columbus and other Ohio cities already have enacted similar legislation.

THE DEBATE on door-to-door canvassing was prompted by a letter from Blenn Stevenson, Pinckney St. He urged proper laws to control such practices.

The letter noted that outside salesmen should be required to report their intentions with local police, be licensed and reasonable hours for their activities be established.

Solicitor Kenneth Robbins reminded that the city already has an ordinance designed to control soliciting in general. However, the law was declared unconstitutional in Circleville Municipal Court several days ago. Similar cases also have been held unconstitutional in other courts across the land.

Robbins said he personally feels a controlling ordinance is needed — other than outlawing soliciting altogether. He was directed, on Councilman Joe Bell's suggestion, to outline such a measure for future action.

Controls on liquidation sales have been advocated by the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber has based its stand on numerous consumer complaints here regarding going out of business sales.

Robbins agreed to research the matter, with intentions of preparing appropriate legislation.

IN OTHER business the lawmakers approved a motion calling for renewal of fire protection contracts between the city and Circleville.

Robert Call Named to Chamber Unit

The Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce appointed Robert N. Call to the membership committee during its meeting yesterday.

Call replaces Douglas Cotterman, who recently moved to Athens, as a director of the chamber. The membership drive will be completed this week.

In other business conducted, the brochure on Circleville was approved by the public affairs and public relations committees and forwarded to the printers.

It was also announced that the "Welcome to Circleville" signs on Route 23 north and south of the city had been completely refurbished.

The sign north has been relocated, and shrubbery donated by the Pickaway County Garden Club will be moved to the new location as quickly as possible.

Approval was given for Mrs. E. R. Bennett to attend the Staff Institute in Columbus May 24.

Negroes Push

a day during which thousands of Negroes infiltrated the downtown business district and milled about the streets in the heart of the city.

Fire hoses again were brought into play to disperse the crowds.

Police appeared almost powerless at times to cope with the surging masses, but there were no serious incidents.

Authorities said at least 10 policemen were injured, none seriously. Most were struck by thrown rocks.

There were no confirmed reports of any negroes being injured.

Arrests total more than 2,400, including approximately 1,000 juveniles.

Authorities today began releasing the youngsters to the custody of their parents. Nearly 300 had been released by mid-morning. Several hundred adults also have been released on bond.

There were these other developments: —President Kennedy and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy kept in close touch with the situation. The President said he hoped that the racial problems could be solved by the people of Birmingham.

Gov. Wallace, in a speech before the Alabama Legislature, threatened murder prosecutions if the Negro demonstrations result in violence and death. The governor said he would take whatever action necessary to preserve law and order—perhaps including calling out National Guard troops, although there was no official word in this.

—The White House reported that a Justice Department representative had succeeded in bringing Negro and white leaders together in Birmingham for their first meeting on the racial problem.

—Former baseball star Jackie Robinson said at New York that he plans to visit Birmingham within the next week or two to take part in the mass protest.

—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, called on NAACP branches throughout the country to conduct "peaceful sympathy picketing" in support of the Birmingham demonstrations.

—More opponents appeared Tuesday before the House Government Operations Committee.

Karl Jaeger, founder of the International School of America, said he was guest speaker before Polish University students while on a world tour last year. Yet, he said, this proposal would ban the reverse in this nation.

Robert Shamansky, Columbus attorney, said the effectiveness of the bill in fighting communism would be minute. William R. Schnug, education chairman for the Ohio Department of the American Legion, said he was not representing majority opinion of the Legion, but opposes the bill because "I think this fight can be won within the scope of existing laws."

Others appearing in opposition included Mrs. Ernest W. Moser, for the Ohio Section of the National Council of Jewish Women; Donald Stuver, a member of the Young Republicans at Ohio State University, representatives of the student senate and student newspaper at Miami University and Otterbein Prof. John H. Laubach.

ATHEENS, Ohio (AP)—Attempts to stop Communist speakers in this country unduly magnify the extent of their strength in the minds of others, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas says.

Douglas, here for a lecture at Ohio University, told a news conference Tuesday that Americans are inadvertently raising the prestige of communism by preventing them from speaking freely.

In Italy, France, India and other countries where Communists are permitted to speak their minds openly, their effectiveness is almost negligible," he said.

"The only real strength world communism has found is in the rumors we spread about it."

Commission Seeks Court Approval To Hire Counsel

Pickaway County's Board of Commissioners has filed application with Common Pleas Court to employ a Cleveland law firm.

The county heads are asking the court's approval to employ the firm of Squire, Sanders and Dempsey to prepare and supervise initial proceedings concerning the issuance of notes for the financing of Improvement No. 1 in the Ashville-Teays Valley Storm Sewer District.

Commissioners Clyde Michel, Lloyd Melvin and Wayne Hines are also asking the court's approval for the payment of a $400 fee in compensation for the legal firm's counsel.

It's Here To Stay

Someone asks what happened to the do-it-yourself fad. And a wag suggests that the movement so widely talked about a few years ago should have had the slogan: Start it yourself and let somebody finish it for you.

Hurried observation in stores handling materials and tools for doing it yourself, and in driving through various communities, leads to the conclusion that do-it-yourself is far from a thing of the past. Less is heard about such undertakings, probably, because the idea has caught on so

Give It a Try

A younger generation recalls with polite amusement grandmother's prescription, "Starve a fever, feed a cold," and grandfather's reliance on his aching joints to tell him when it was going to rain.

But scientists now believe the old folks may have been better doctors and weather forecasters than they were given credit for.

Grandma and grandpa had an economic

Cuba Still Red Gem

Those Russians who herded into Red Square to welcome Fidel Castro to Moscow were indeed fortunate not to have had to endure more than a 40-minute speech by the Cuban dictator. Usually Fidel's harangues last for hours, but he seemed demure, even reticent, during his Red Square appearance.

From all reports, even the large crowd gave Castro a cool welcome. There seemed to be an air of tenseness hovering over the festivities, as if the onlookers were watching an under-rehearsed play or attending the arrival of a black sheep cousin.

The lukewarm reception may only be part of a communist plot to fool the capitalist world into believing that all is not well between Russia and Cuba. But Castro as recently as March allegedly told a Cuban audience that he would have gladly punched Khrushchev in the nose if the Russian dictator had been in Havana the day So-generally it is accepted now almost without comment. Doing-it-yourself has become a way of life.

When one stops to consider the heavy manpower demands of construction now under way, it is understandable that many a roof would never be mended or porch screened in unless someone tackled the job on a self-service basis.

The do-it-yourself idea hasn't lost ground. What has happened is that it has moved in to stay.

recipe, too. Mr. Micawber put it this way. "Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure nineteen pounds six, result happiness. Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure twenty pounds ought and six, result misery."

Sounds silly in an era of credit economy, deficit spending and unbalanced budgets. But then, come to think of it, so did those other things our grandparents told us.

viet missiles were ordered withdrawn from Cuba.

Khrushchev is also constantly reminded that an ineffectual Castro administration has made such a mess out of the Cuban economy that Russia is forced to spend at least a million dollars a day bolstering it.

But Khrushchev isn't about to let personalities interfere with communist plans for world domination. Cuba is, after all, a communist gem in an American ocean, and even if every Cuban has to be pensioned off as it were, Khrushchev wants to keep it that way.

If Castro wants more money because of a particularly disastrous sugar crop, Castro will get more money — even if it means pouring two billion dollars a day into the Cuban economy.

To have a thorn as irritating as Castro in the American side is worth practically any amount of money to Russia.

Things To Give a Man a Yawn

NEW YORK (AP)—As a man is known by his enthusiasms, so he equally gives himself away by what bores him.

To one who appreciates the real pleasures of boredom, the 20th century is a source of endless joy.

A constant climate—or a constant paradise—pall upon the palate. To stay human we need to dislike as well as like. We are fortunate in that probably never before in history has there been so many things to give us a big yawn.

Here's one man's list:

All New York Yankee baseball fans.
Shaving every morning.
Musical alarm clocks.
Sonorous-voiced radio and television announcers who intone the news as if doom were in the saddle—and riding mankind.
Any good-looking girls under 50 who get up and offer me a seat

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

BO JOHNSON was not only the best hunter but the most resourceful alibi artist in Minnesota. One day Bo and his bosom companion, Don Cooper, set out on a deer hunt. They separated in the woods, and soon thereafter Cooper heard a shot. "Bo's got him a deer already," he marveled, and rejoined his friend. Bo was reloading but there was no deer in sight. He did, however, observe that an obviously frightened calf was departing the scene.

"Holy mackerel," chortled Cooper. "You didn't shoot at that calf did you?" "Yep," admitted Johnson. "I took it for a deer." "And you missed it, at that," exulted Cooper. "Some hunter: mistaking a calf for a deer—then missing it!" "Don't be silly," snapped Johnson, the alibi king. "I shot at it so as to hit it if it was a deer, and miss it if it was a calf!"

A few of Benjamin Franklin's maxims:

Kings and bears often worry their keepers.
He's a fool that makes his doctor his heir.
To lengthen thy life, lessen thy meals.
Beware of meat twice boiled, and an old foe reconciled.
The heart of a fool is in his mouth, but the mouth of a wise man is in his heart.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

If a woman has to have a hysterectomy does it always mean that she has a cancer?

Mrs. E. S. Massachusetts Dear Mrs. S.: No, it does not necessarily mean that the uterus is being removed because of a cancer. There are many other reasons for this operation.

The most common reason is the presence of large, non-malignant fibroid tumors.

My mother is 53 years old. She has deep cuts on her tongue. Is this a vitamin deficiency?

Mrs. C. N. Connecticut Dear Mrs. N.: Deep, painless cuts of the tongue are usually part of a picture that is described as "geographic tongue". The cause is rarely a vitamin deficiency.

These cuts do not indicate a serious condition. Your mother has probably had them for many years.

Are frozen foods less nourishing than fresh foods?

Mrs. H. V. Arizona Dear Mrs. V.: The present techniques for the commercial freezing of foods are scientifically designed to preserve all the nutritious elements of food, including the vitamin content. With rare exceptions, these frozen foods are as nourishing as fresh foods.

What causes a keloid scar?
G. G. Nevada Dear Miss G.: A keloid is an abnormal scarring of wounds following burns or surgery. The skin incision becomes thick and heavy and unsightly.

Some people have a tendency to develop keloid formation. When this is known, the keloid can sometimes be minimized or avoided by the use of X-ray therapy on the wound incision.

Do animals really hear better than man?

L. I. F. Mississippi Dear Mr. F.: Animals may not hear better than man, but they do hear better the sounds of higher pitch.

The normal hearing range for most humans is about 20,000 to 30,000 cycles. This is the technical term for the measurement of pitch.

Animals can hear sounds with a pitch as high as 50,000 to 75,000 cycles.

I have a small lump on my wrist. Several people have told me that I can get rid of it by hitting it hard with a Bible. Is this true?

Mrs. T. U. California Dear Mrs. U.: Some growths on the wrists are called "ganglions".

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—Bankers are cautioning today against reading too much into the spring pickup in business or into what people say they intend to do with their money.

The news has been mostly good late. And surveys of what businessmen and consumers alike say they plan to spend have been even better.

But with their proverbial caution some bankers are warning that even if all these good things come about, it is far from adding up to a boom. And they are noting that so far most of the intentions remain just that—without many more dollars actually hitting the marketplace.

Many Americans went too far last summer in talking about a recession that never materialized. They could go too far now in anticipating a boom that may be just as illusory.

In urging caution in interesting recent developments, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York says in its monthly review this week,

"Available data on actual business capital outlays and on orders and contract awards have not as yet shown the kind of pickup that is indicated in the surveys of spending plans."

The official survey by the Department of Commerce and Securities and Exchange Commission estimates business spending for new plant and equipment will reach $39 billion this year, up $1.8 billion from last year.

This would account for 6.8 per cent of the administration's estimate of the 1963 Gross National Product, the value of all goods and services produced. This compares with 8.5 per cent of GNP in the boom years of 1955-56. And some of the dollar rise this year must be chalked up to higher prices for plant construction and equipment.

Bankers' caution also centers on the frequent quick change in business sentiment which could trim spending plans fast if hopes built on prospects of a boom are dashed. The actual spending has not taken place yet.

Other spending plans are better backed by performance just now. Government spending at the federal, state and local levels seem sure to go on rising. Already it is a strong prop to the business recovery. Consumer spending has stayed high right along and is rising. But the gains aren't spectacular.

Consumers are the strongest prop of all. In the first quarter personal consumption spending was running at an annual rate of $369 billion, up $5.5 billion from the annual rate in the final months of 1962. More reassuring to those with goods or services to sell was the drop in the rate of personal saving. In the final months of last year individuals were adding to their savings at an annual rate of $25.8 billion. In the first three months of 1963 the rate slipped to $23.7 billion. Their disposable income after taxes had increased at a rate of $3.4 billion. The rise in the rate of spending at the economy's prospects.

Speed Is Not the Essence

By John Chamberlain

Just thirty years ago we were in the middle of what our historians call the "hundred days" — meaning the period in which the First New Deal administration was still being fought. By contrast, President Kennedy's experience in getting the legislation he wants must seem like the "hundred years," so slowly does everything now move through Congress.

In thinking back, however, to the days when all those magic letters — NRA, AAA, PWA, WPA, CCC — were receiving swift Congressional blessing, the present "hundred year" pace does not particularly suffer from the contrast. For the truth is that most of the legislation of the "hundred days" was sloppily conceived, and its legacies to the present have only served to make certain bad matters worse.

The PWA, the WPA and the CCC were temporary necessities, for some action had to be taken in 1933 to handle the unemployment problem. Their dubious legacy to 1963, however, is that politicians still tend to think in WPA and CCC terms when they should be considering far more fundamental approaches to the business of making an economy expansive enough to keep unemployment at a minimum. For example, when school "drop-outs" increase, throwing young people without skills on the labor market, all that Washington can think of doing is to pick up the drop-out kids and send them off to the woods to mark time for a couple of years. This is pure palliative. The drop-out problem actually starts with defective methods of teaching first and second grade students how to read — and it won't be solved until there is a grassroots revolution in educational theory in all the local school districts. Washington can't solve this sort of problem with money; it can be solved only by local brains.

Luckily for the economy, the Supreme Court tossed out the original NRA and AAA. But the NRA, with its section 7a which guaranteed labor's right to bargain collectively, had its effect on the Wagner Act, which had to be modified by the Taft-Hartley Act. The First New Deal was right when it outlawed union smashing — but it could have done this without saddling the economy with the sort of blunderbuss industry-wide bargaining that has kept both management and the leadership of the unions from thinking in "progress sharing" terms. It has taken labor leaders thirty years to see virtues in the type of profit-sharing contract recently signed by the unions with Kaiser Steel and the American Motors Company.

As for agriculture, the First New Deal approach still bedeviles us. Every year the farm mess gets more and more unmanageable. Since 1933 some $50 billion has been spent on attempts to control the crop surplus, and much of this money has been completely wasted. The other day I started to write a column about butter storage — but I quit when I realized I had written the same piece about the same problems fifteen years ago. Nothing had changed in all that time. In writing about farm bureaucracy insanities one has the feeling of the man who tossed a feather into the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and waited to hear if it made a splash. The words pour a column about butter storage — and, as "control" follows "control" on the farm front, ingenious farmers invariably find ways of defeating all the expensively financed restraints.

So now the situation has come down to a clear choice between freedom and a new-style agricultural serfdom for the farmer. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman is tired of seeing controls disrupted by fertility. He has resolved to tell all the wheat farmers how much they may plant, how much they may harvest, and how much they may sell. Everything will go by strictly enforced permit if the farm vote on the wheat referendum, scheduled for May 21, goes Freeman's way.

The Freedom program would subject all wheat growers to the decisions of a two-thirds majority. This is "democracy." But if every third farmer is to be told against his wishes what he may or may not do, the day of the individual on the farm is dead.

The seeds of this possibility were sown in the "hundred days" of 1933. So don't weep now when the Congress of 1963 takes its time before passing a bill.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

A combination of gentle southerly winds and partly cloudy skies kept temperatures from dropping below the 50s in Ohio during the night.

The early morning readings today ranged from 50 at Cincinnati to 63 at Findlay. Cleveland had 58, Toledo 61 and Columbus and Zanesville 53.

By afternoon, all areas are expected to register temperatures in the high 70s or low 80s.

The morning weather map shows high pressure over the southeastern states and low pressure areas from the northern Great Lakes to the central Rockies.

Ohio's weather will be controlled partly by the dry southwest winds of the high pressure area and partly by the low pressure centers to the north.

Some showers are indicated for the northern counties tonight and Thursday, while the remainder of the state is expected to continue warm and dry.

NORTHERN OHIO — Temperatures will average two to five degrees above normal. Normal high 64-70, normal low 43-49. Cooler Thursday and Friday, warmer again by first of next week. Scattered showers tonight and Thursday, again about Saturday or Sunday, averaging two-tenths to four-tenths of an inch.

SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO—Temperatures will average four to eight degrees above normal. Normal high 70-77, normal low 48-52. Warm through Friday, cooler over weekend. Chance of a few thundershowers central Thursday, over area Saturday or Sunday.

Lutheran Women Attend Annual Spring Convention

A group of women from Trinity Lutheran church attended the annual spring convention of the American Lutheran Church Women, Tuesday at Zion Lutheran Church, Obetz. Pastor Lindemuth of Zion led in morning devotions.

Mrs. Edwin Distelhorst, president of the Ohio District ALCW, welcomed the group and discussed the National ALCW Convention to be held at St. Louis, Mo. in August. Miss Joy Lindemuth presented a flute solo, accompanied on the organ by Miss Ethel Weber. The morning speaker was Mrs. Theodore Stellhorn Jr. who is first vice president of the ALCW and the wife of a Lutheran pastor in Sandusky. Pastor and Mrs. Stellhorn described in a vivid fashion many of the events of their trip.

Included were visits to many of the Lutheran foreign mission fields and Mrs. Sellhorn described the effectiveness of missionary work. However, she used as her topic "It's About Time," she stressed that it is time we did more, to relieve the suffering and misery of so many millions of people, and much more to bring the message of Christ, because Christianity does change people and their way of living.

Mrs. Raymond Rice, president of the Columbus Conference of ALCW conducted the business session. A luncheon was served by the ladies of Zion church. The group browsed through a book display set up by the Augsburg Publishing Company of Columbus and also took a tour of the church which is new.

Afternoon devotions were conducted by Mrs. Jon Schrum, followed by reports from Mrs. S. C. Cashman, stewardship chairman and Mrs. Robert Brush, education chairman. The speaker was Mrs. C. H. Lange, wife of the pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, Columbus. Her topic was "The Glory of His Name" and was an inspirational message for women, showing how a woman can live her life and direct the lives of her family, friends and acquaintances.

Special music was presented by the Junior Choir of Zion church, directed by Mrs. Walter Anthony and accompanied by Mrs. Mary E. Martin.

Attending the convention from Circleville were the following: Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Carl Zehner, Mrs. Edward Cross, Mrs. Chris Schwarz, Mrs. Robert Moon, Mrs. W. M. Montgomery, Mrs. Carl Rihl, Mrs. Richard Penn, Mrs. Walter Pickel, Mrs. Charles Walters, Mrs. Richard Fellmeth, Mrs. John Pontius, Mrs. Fred Gutzat, Mrs. Frank Turner, Miss Ethyl Cook, and Mrs. M. D. Lorenz.

Rubber Union Calls for New Wage Parley

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The two-year major contract agreement between the United Rubber Workers Union and Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. expired last month for 21,000 employees of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. remained in a confused state today after leaders of the big Akron local called for new negotiations with the company.

The executive committee of the 9,800-member URW Local 2, the largest of all rubber workers locals voted 6-5 Tuesday to send negotiators back to the bargaining table.

There had been a hope the committee would call for a special membership meeting to reconsider Sunday's ratification vote when fewer than 10 per cent of the members voted 450-402 to reject the two-year pact.

Three other of the 11 locals at Goodyear plants throughout the country also turned down the agreement. Although a majority of the locals approved the agreement, the measure failed to win support of a required majority of the membership.

Group Fetes Senior Girls

The Ashville Women's Civic Club, members of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, were hosts to the graduating senior girls of Teays Valley High School and their home room teacher, Russell Gregg, in the First English Lutheran Church social rooms.

Mrs. Richard Snider extended the welcome. Mrs. William Snyder presented the program. The men's barbershop quartet "The Two by Fours" sang "Wait Till the Sun Shines Nellie", "Snicker", "Lida Rose", "Oh, How I Miss You Tonight", and "Keep America Singing."

Glenn Flierl presented his magic show with audience participation. The Senior Girl's Chorus sang, "Tammy", and "Let There Be Peace on Earth" accompanied on the piano by Miss Gretchen Hott. Mrs. Art Deal Jr., entertained with her accordion. Her selections were "I Believe", "He", and "Come Back To Sorrento."

The girls and club members were served from a beautifully decorated tea table. An arrangement of yellow chrysanthemum and blue iris, the senior class colors, centered the table enhanced with gold tapers in crystal holders. Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. Robert Sliwinski and Mrs. Deal.

A short business meeting was held. Notes from Ohio Federation members were received by the club thanking them for a job well done at convention serving as the pages and ushers. A thank you note was also read from Ray Davis for a gift received from the club.

A motion was made and approved that the club scholarship, given annually, now be awarded to a Teays Valley Senior student entering the field of education in place of an Ashville graduating senior which was previously stated. Miss Nelle Oesterle, chairman of the scholarship committee, said that applications will be studied by her committee and a selection will be made and announced at the graduation exercises May 29.

Members voted to purchase "The Ohio Heritage Library", Volume I, and sell it to the public. This book was published by Frank Siedel, author of "The Ohio Story", by working with leading educators throughout the state and with the Ohio Historical Society. It includes 20 original paintings. It will be sold by members of the OFWC only. A committee comprised of Mrs. Felix Dore, Mrs. Richard Snider and Mr. Lowell Cooper was appointed to publicize the book in our local schools and community.

Mrs. Harold Bowers and Mrs. Warren Bastian were asked to plan the entertainment for the June 6 dinner meeting.

Dear Abby:

by Abigail Van Buren

Hold On, Gal!

DEAR ABBY: My husband has had this other woman for over four years. They came to me and begged me for a divorce, saying they loved each other. I said, "That's just too bad because I have six kids who need a father." I am in no shape to start hunting myself up another man and, besides, I got married once and that's enough for me. I don't bother him and he doesn't bother me, but I hate to see him mooning around the house like a sick calf. What does a woman do when she finds herself in this fix?

NO HAPPINESS
DEAR NO: She hangs on—as you're doing. Some men get tired of the chase and come to realize that there's no place like home. Others need professional help. If your husband doesn't "come to" of his own accord and conscience, seek help from a marriage counselor or your minister.

DEAR ABBY: You advised "FRUSTRATED" that any money a wife earns is HERS. In some states, the earnings of a wife, unless provided otherwise by a prenuptial agreement, fall into the community property existing between husband and wife. Furthermore, the husband as head and master of the community has the exclusive administration of the wife's earnings.

Respectfully,
E.K.L. (New Orleans)

DEAR MR. L.: "FRUSTRATED" took a job as substitute teacher to earn money for "extras". Her husband, she stated, was a professional man and an adequate provider. She worked in order to buy herself a mink stole, which her husband considered a "frivolity". I still say that morally, under the circumstances, the wife is entitled to spend her earnings as she wishes. I was merely settling a family argument. If she had wanted legal advice, she would have gone to a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I have gone to the same beauty operator for several years. Lately every time I arrive for my appointment, my operator tells me she is running about an hour late. She says it is because the patrons before me have come late. I finally got tired of it and quit her. My husband doesn't like the way my new operator does my hair and he wants me to go back to the old one. It's a matter of principle with me. Am I right or is my husband? Would you go back?

AH BLONDE
DEAR AH: When a customer is late for an appointment, SHE is the one who should be kept waiting. Even if her tardiness was unavoidable, it is not fair to throw everyone else off schedule. I think you are right. Shop around for another operator. And reward the prompt ones with your patronage.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "M.J.": There is always a bit of risk involved with progress. You can't steal second base unless you take your foot off first.

What's on your mind? For a per-

Monday Club Concludes Year

Mrs. Joseph P. Adkins and Mrs. Theodore L. Huston presented two piano solos when members of the Monday Club met this week in the session room of the Public Library. This was the final meeting for the year.

Mrs. George Barnes presided while annual reports of officers were given. Mrs. O. E. Barr, Mrs. David Fullen and Mrs. Doyle R. Painter Sr., were delegates reporting meetings of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs held last month at the Deshler-Hilton Hotel in Columbus.

One highlight of the convention was a talk by Dr. Otis Maxfield, senior minister of the First Community Church of Columbus. His remarks pertained to his recent visit with the people of South America and he enlightened his audience on some of their background.

He stated that the original settlers of South America made their fortunes there and then returned to Spain and this is still true today.

Some observations made by Dr. Maxfield were as follows: In Rio de Janeiro the average take home pay is $400 a year; in one remote village in Peru there was one water tap for 10,000 people and this dries up during the summer; 90 per cent of the wealth is controlled by 10 per cent of the people; the majority of the population is four centuries behind us in every aspect; alcoholism is a problem in many countries of South America; Peruvian actors help spread Communism.

Mrs. Adkins and Mrs. Huston presented piano solos entitled "Taranella" from Rachmaninoff's Suite No. 2 and "Lotus Land" by Cyril Scott.

The Ashville Women's Civic Club, members of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, were hosts to the graduating senior girls of Teays Valley High School and their home room teacher, Russell Gregg, in the First English Lutheran Church social rooms.

Mrs. Richard Snyder extended the welcome. Mrs. William Snyder presented the program. The men's barbershop quartet "The Two by Fours" sang "Wait Till the Sun Shines Nellie", "Snicker", "Lida Rose", "Oh, How I Miss You Tonight", and "Keep America Singing."

Glenn Flierl presented his magic show with audience participation. The Senior Girl's Chorus sang, "Tammy", and "Let There Be Peace on Earth" accompanied on the piano by Miss Gretchen Hott. Mrs. Art Deal Jr., entertained with her accordion. Her selections were "I Believe", "He", and "Come Back To Sorrento".

The girls and club members were served from a beautifully decorated tea table. An arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums and blue iris, the senior class colors, centered the table enhanced with gold tapers in crystal holders. Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. Robert Sliwinski and Mrs. Deal.

A short business meeting was held. Notes from Ohio Federation members were received by the club thanking them for a job well done at convention serving as the pages and ushers. A thank you note was also read from Ray Davis for a gift received from the club.

A motion was made and approved that the club scholarship, given annually, now be awarded to a Teays Valley Senior student entering the field of education in place of an Ashville graduating senior which was previously stated. Miss Nelle Oesterle, chairman of the scholarship committee, said that applications will be studied by her committee and a selection will be made and announced at the graduation exercises May 29.

Members voted to purchase "The Ohio Heritage Library", Volume I, and sell it to the public. This book was published by Frank Siedel, author of "The Ohio Story", by working with leading educators throughout the state and with the Ohio Historical Society. It includes 20 original paintings. It will be sold by members of the OFWC only. A committee comprised of Mrs. Felix Dore, Mrs. Richard Snider and Mr. Lowell Cooper was appointed to publicize the book in our local schools and community.

Mrs. Harold Bowers and Mrs. Warren Bastian were asked to plan the entertainment for the June 6 dinner meeting.

Dear Abby:

by Abigail Van Buren

Hold On, Gal!

DEAR ABBY: My husband has had this other woman for over four years. They came to me and begged me for a divorce, saying they loved each other. I said, "That's just too bad because I have six kids who need a father." I am in no shape to start hunting myself up another man and, besides, I got married once and that's enough for me. I don't bother him and he doesn't bother me, but I hate to see him mooning around the house like a sick calf. What does a woman do when she finds herself in this fix?

DEAR NO: She hangs on — as you're doing. Some men get tired of the chase and come to realize that there's no place like home. Others need professional help. If your husband doesn't "come to" of his own accord and conscience, seek help from a marriage counselor or your minister.

DEAR ABBY: You advised "FRUSTRATED" that any money a wife earns is HERS. In some states, the earnings of a wife, unless provided otherwise by a prenuptial agreement, fall into the community property existing between husband and wife. Furthermore, the husband as head and master of the community has the exclusive administration of the wife's earnings.

Respectfully,
E.K.L. (New Orleans)

DEAR MR. L.: "FRUSTRATED" took a job as substitute teacher to earn money for "extras". Her husband, she stated, was a professional man and an adequate provider. She worked in order to buy herself a mink stole, which her husband considered a "frivolity". I still say that morally, under the circumstances, the wife is entitled to spend her earnings as she wishes. I was merely settling a family argument. If she had wanted legal advice, she would have gone to a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I have gone to the same beauty operator for several years. Lately every time I arrive for my appointment, my operator tells me she is running about an hour late. She says it is because the patrons before me have come late. I finally got tired of it and quit her. My husband doesn't like the way my new operator does my hair and he wants me to go back to the old one. It's a matter of principle with me. Am I right or is my husband? Would you go back?

DEAR AH: When a customer is late for an appointment, SHE is the one who should be kept waiting. Even if her tardiness was unavoidable, it is not fair to throw everyone else off schedule. I think you are right. Shop around for another operator. And reward the prompt ones with your patronage.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "M.J.": There is always a bit of risk involved with progress. You can't steal second base unless you take your foot off first.

Monday Club Concludes Year

Mrs. Joseph P. Adkins and Mrs. Theodore L. Huston presented two piano solos when members of the Monday Club met this week in the session room of the Public Library. This was the final meeting for the year.

Mrs. George Barnes presided while annual reports of officers were given. Mrs. O. E. Barr, Mrs. David Fuller and Mrs. Doyle R. Painter Sr., were delegates reporting meetings of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs held last month at the Deshler-Hilton Hotel in Columbus.

One highlight of the convention was a talk by Dr. Otis Maxfield, senior minister of the First Community Church of Columbus. His remarks pertained to his recent visit with the people of South America and he enlightened his audience on some of their background.

He stated that the original settlers of South America made their fortunes there and then returned to Spain and this is still true today.

Some observations made by Dr. Maxfield were as follows: in Rio de Janeiro the average take home pay is $400 a year; in one remote village in Peru there was one water tap for 10,000 people and it dries up during the summer; 90 per cent of the wealth is controlled by 10 per cent of the people; the majority of the population is four centuries behind us in every aspect; alcoholism is a problem in many countries of South America; Peruvian actors help spread Communism.

Mrs. Adkins and Mrs. Huston presented piano solos entitled "Tarantelle" from Rachmaninoff's Suite No. 2 and "Lotus Land" by Cyril Scott.

6-Month Term Given Trucker In Fatal Crash

CLEVELAND (AP)—Justin Gedraitis has been sentenced to six months in the workhouse for the Nov. 2 crash when his truck crossed the center strip on the Willow Freeway and struck a car, resulting in the death of six Akron school teachers.

Gedraitis, 43, was convicted by a three-judge panel of traffic manslaughter Tuesday. The judges split 2-1 on their verdict, but would not say who had voted for acquittal. The judges were William K. Thomas, Victor Cohen and Hugh A. Corrigan.

Gedraitis said after the verdict that he had not driven since the night of the fatal crash and would not drive again.

George J. Moscarino, the assistant county prosecutor called it a just verdict. He had maintained throughout the trial that Gedraitis had been imprudent to drive after he had blacked out last June 22.

Owls Enlisted To Rid Hangar Of Bird Pests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Officials at nearby Lockbourne Air Force Base have called on one of nature's original attack bombers to help them rid hangars of pesky birds.

Two great horned owls, supplied by the Ohio Division of Wildlife, now are perched in a cage high in one of the huge maintenance hangar and are doing their job—scaring away pigeons and English sparrows.

Some five stories high, the upper recesses of the hangars offer perfect nesting places for the pigeons and sparrows, but cleaning the floors and the aircraft under the roofs has been a constant job, especially in the winter when flocks of from 200 to 300 birds live in the structures. All manner of control measures were tried but none worked until a snowy owl found his way into the hangar. The birds left and eventually so did the owl. That's when the Air Force replacement and the two horned owls joined the Air Force.

Columbus Electrician Killed by Power Line

URBANA, Ohio (AP)—George Brooker, 34-year-old employee of the Wolfrey Electric Co., Columbus, was electrocuted late Tuesday while working on power lines near here. Authorities said Brooker, from Marietta, became entangled in the wires and received 700-volts.

Probation Study Slated In Manslaughter Case

CINCINNATI (AP)—Judge Schneider ordered a pre-sentence probation report Tuesday on Russell L. Guy, 18, of Cincinnati after convicting Guy of second-degree manslaughter in the death of a Wheelersburg man.

Simon W. Lang, 47, was killed and four members of his family, were hurt when Guy's car struck theirs fast Sept. 30.

Idle Pay Fraud Totals $862,693

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Investigations by the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation show persons fraudulently collected $862,693 in unemployment compensation last year.

However, Willard P. Dudley, BUC administrator said $397,821 of the total has been recovered and investigations are continuing to recover more of the money.

Dudley said the majority of the "bad" claims involved persons who lied about the number of dependents or collected unemployment payments while employed. The persons face criminal prosecution if the funds cannot be recovered, Dudley emphasized.

He said the bureau, which uncovered 380 direct cases of fraud in the Cleveland area, also is investigating 975 cases of alleged fraud uncovered last year.

The fraudulent payments, he said, have amounted to slightly over 49 cents of every $100 paid claimants and that the uncovered balance is more than $1.3 million or seven per cent of the total payments.

"A major goal of improved administration in Ohio will be the policing of fraud, in an effort to reduce it to a minimum," Dudley said. He indicated that past practice has been to allow claims, then investigate and attempt to collect fraudulent payments.

Statistics prepared by William Papier, director of research and statistics for the bureau, show that downtown Cleveland leads in the number of fraud cases, with Columbus second. The Akron area is third.

"No matter how little may be involved," Dudley said, "fraud—like sin—cannot be minimized."

The BUC records showed that fraud claims jumped nearly $1 million during the four-year period from 1959 to 1962. Cases developed during 1961 totaled $697,561 of which $384,007 was recovered.

Some of the more common types of benefit fraud include: failure to report employment and/or earnings; failure to report self-employment and/or income; claiming dependents fraudulently; falsification of employer contracts; failure to report work refusal; and fraudulent certification by another for the claimant.

Two great horned owls, supplied by the Ohio Division of Wildlife, now are perched in a cage high in one of the huge maintenance hangar and are doing their job—scaring away pigeons and English sparrows.

Some five stories high, the upper recesses of the hangars offer perfect nesting places for the pigeons and sparrows, but cleaning the floors and the aircraft under the roosts has been a constant job, especially in the winter when flocks of from 200 to 300 birds live in the structures.

All manner of control measures were tried but none worked until a snowy owl found his way into the hangar. The birds left and eventually so did the owl.

That's when the Air Force replacement and the two horned owls joined the Air Force.

Columbus Electrician Killed by Power Line

URBANA, Ohio (AP) — George Brooker, 34-year-old employee of the Wolfrey Electric Co., Columbus, was electrocuted late Tuesday while working on power lines near here. Authorities said Brooker, from Marietta, became entangled in the wires and received 700 volts.

Probation Study Slated In Manslaughter Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Judge Schneider ordered a pre-sentence probation report Tuesday on Russell L. Guy, 18, of Cincinnati after convicting Guy of second-degree manslaughter in the death of a Wheelersburg man.

Simon W. Lang, 47, was killed and four members of his family, were hurt when Guy's car struck theirs last Sept. 30.

Idle Pay Fraud Totals $862,693

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Investigations by the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation show persons fraudulently collected $862,693 in unemployment compensation last year.

However, Willard P. Dudley, BUC administrator said $397,821 of the total has been recovered and investigations are continuing to recover more of the money.

Dudley said the majority of the "bad" claims involved persons who lied about the number of dependents or collected unemployment payments while employed.

The persons face criminal prosecution if the funds cannot be recovered, Dudley emphasized.

He said the bureau, which uncovered 380 direct cases of fraud in the Cleveland area, also is investigating 975 cases of alleged fraud uncovered last year.

The fraudulent payments, he said, have amounted to slightly over 49 cents of every $100 paid claimants and that the unrecovered balance is more than $1.3 million or seven per cent of the total payments.

"A major goal of improved administration in Ohio will be the policing of fraud, in an effort to reduce it to a minimum," Dudley said. He indicated that past practice has been to allow claims, then investigate and attempt to collect fraudulent payments.

Statistics prepared by William Papier, director of research and statistics for the bureau, show that downtown Cleveland leads in the number of fraud cases, with Columbus second. The Akron area is third.

"No matter how little may be involved," Dudley said, "fraud—like sin—cannot be minimized."

The BUC records showed that fraud claims jumped nearly $1 million during the four-year period from 1959 to 1962. Cases developed during 1961 totaled $697,561 of which $384,007 was recovered.

Some of the more common types of benefit fraud include: failure to report employment and/or earnings; failure to report self-employment and/or income; claiming dependents fraudulently; falsification of employer contracts; failure to report work refusal; and fraudulent certification by another for the claimant.

Salk Institute For Biological Studies Readied

$15 Million Layout
To Be on Cliffside
Overlooking Pacific

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The Salk Institute for Biological Studies is under construction on a cliffside overlooking a stretch of beach where the blue and emerald waters of the Pacific come to rest and roll back out to sea.

Situated atop Torrey Pines Mesa, the institute will tower above a grove of gnarled dwarf pines which cling to the face of a crumbling, yellowish sandstone cliff.

The Torrey pines range downward to a deep ravine where morning sea fog frequently drifts in to cloak their haunting shapes.

The spot has attracted others, notably a group of millionaires who vied with Dr. Jonas Salk for it.

They offered to pay $2.5 million for a 50-year lease of the property and intended to convert it into an executive golf course. A spokesman for the group told the San Diego City Council: "Top pros have said it would make it one of the finest golf courses in the world."

Typically, Dr. Salk took no part in public discussion of contending proposals for use of the $1-million split of land and eventually it was awarded to his sponsor—the National Foundation.

Dr. Salk, who developed the antipoli vaccine 10 years ago, has been quoted as having called the site "Utopia." But in an interview he said he hadn't.

The institute will be a $15-million plant with two deluxe laboratories where a body of biologists will begin their research not later than July 1964. One of Dr. Salk's aides said some of the scientists will start to work in a temporary laboratory at the institute within three months.

Later on, philosophers, historians of science and others will join the staff.

Research at the institute will be unhampered by pressure. There will be no crash projects—undertaken to lick a single, devastating disease, for instance, cancer, or to develop a particular thing, such as an atom bomb.

Dr. Salk at present is experimenting with viruses and predicts that it will one day be possible to control as many as 100 diseases with a single, over-all antiviral vaccine.

"The way to fight cancer is to immunize man from all viruses that affect him," he said. "It may be a shotgun approach but it may be the only way."

On the road to such a discovery, however, it is possible that the very roots of nature will be tapped—with far-reaching effects.

For instance, scientists probing the biological nature of man could turn up a method of altering personality patterns, potentially a contribution to the mental and spiritual well-being of man.

HOW LONG YOU WORK FOR WHAT YOU BUY—If you're an average production worker ($2.40 hour), here is how long you work for some of the items you buy, according to a 1962 survey by the U. S. Labor Department. A new car runs 29 weeks of work.

Cincinnati's Park Town Is Integration Laboratory

CINCINNATI (AP)—It's a big laboratory, spread over 12 1/2 acres, but it is virtually unknown to most Cincinnatians.

Its called Park Town. It's been running two years with families who put their cash and their way of life on the line—to see if integrated housing really works out.

The private apartment project grew out of a massive slum clearance programing the city's west end area. But Park Town became a community in miniature.

Stan Sheehan, general manager of the project, says, "I think the ratio of Negro to white families in Park Town is probably the most significant contribution Park Town has made to Cincinnati's community life."

"It represents proof that the pursuit of an integrated community has been good business."

The current racial balance:

243 Negro families; 39 whites.

When all 322 apartments in the project were finished the first families were more evenly distributed — 8 Negro families to 27 white.

Sheehan said cooperative ownership of housing is hard for many Cincinnatians to grasp—as tough a sales hurdle in conservative Cincinnati as emotional fears about integrated housing.

It cost $100 down payment on a one-room bachelor efficiency unit, and this cost ranges to $150 down for a large three-bedroom unit.

The monthly mortgage payments start at $55 for the studio apartment and go to $93 for the biggest three-bedroom place, plus utilities.

Park Town suffered a knock when the Reynolds Metals Co.,

an aluminum maker which built the project, switched financing.

In the switch, the interest rate was cut to 3.125 per cent and the down payment—or cost of shares in the cooperative corporation—was cut to $100-150.

But stringent limitations on income were applied; a family of two is limited to top income of $5,800; three or four $6,800; five or six, $7,800, seven or more $8,850.

The switch kicked off charges that Reynolds for business reasons had abandoned the original goal of attracting tenants in the moderate to middle income group.

Dr. Kenneth MacLeod, Cincinnati city health commissioner and one of the projects' first residents, moved out with bitter words for Reynolds.

"Frankly, I have little sympathy with the business interests which financed Park Town," he said. "Structure, rather than people, seem to be the dominant factor in their thinking. And, of course, aluminum."

A few families followed Dr. MacLeod's lead, but there was no general exodus.

A spokesman for Reynolds Aluminum said, "we won't duck the issue that (the financing change) excludes many of the moderate income groups we want to attract."

"We are actively pursuing with the Federal Housing Administration relief from an perhaps complete abandonment of these income limitations."

$693 Income Tax Paid by 'Anonymous'

ATLANTA (AP) — "John Doe Anonymous" has paid the Georgia Revenue Department $693 in income tax.

The payment received Monday was in seven U.S. postal money orders issued at Chattanooga, Tenn. The return listed the payee's taxable income for 1962 at $12,750.

Fred Cox, income tax supervisor, speculated that the money might be from moonshine whisky sales, a lottery or some other form of gambling—or just income the sender didn't want his wife to know about.

Scandinavian 'Fire Brigade' May Become U.N. Police Force

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—If the United Nations is to have a future, Secretary-General U Thant told Swedes last year, it must have the military power to keep peace. Sweden is answering the call.

Premier Tage Erlander sees a new Swedish-Danish-Norwegian emergency force earmarked for U.N. operations as the forerunner of a permanent U.N. military arm empowered to maintain peace in world trouble spots.

DEFECTOR?—The East German news agency announced that Capt. Alfred Svenson (above), missing from his post as deputy commander of the 2nd Tank Battalion, 3rd Armored Division, entered East Germany and asked for political asylum. The agency announced a like report of Sgt. Benjamin L. Cain, also missing, Svenson is from Scranton, Pa., Cain from Newburgh, N. Y.

Historical Society Fuss Heads for Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Auditor Roger Tracy called Tuesday for court action to determine whether the Ohio Historical Society should turn over its funds to the state.

He asked Atty. Gen. William Saxbe to file a declaratory judgment suit in common pleas court here. The Society contends that it has control over fees and other money received in connection with its operation.

Saxbe indicated he might go to court next week.

The Swedish leader endorsed a permanent U.N. "fire brigade" in an interview with The Associated Press.

Asked if the new Scandinavian emergency force might lead to a larger U.N. military arm of many nationalities, Erlander replied, "I would hope so."

The three Scandinavian countries agreed last month to equip a joint emergency force of 3,000 men for U.N. service. Erlander said the force should be maintained permanently for use as needed by the United Nations.

Separate Swedish, Danish and Norwegian forces serve with other nations under U.N. command in Thant called these emergency forces a key first step toward a permanent U.N. police power in a speech at Uppsala last year.

Political bickering and skyrocketing costs which threatened to bankrupt the United Nations have placed the future of these two peacekeeping missions in grave jeopardy.

The U.N. General Assembly will meet in special session May 14 to try to hammer out a workable plan for financing U.N. peacekeeping operations.

Leading the way to wider international cooperation is nothing new for the tall, unpretentious Erlander, Europe's senior chief of a freely elected government. The 61-year-old Socialist has held office continually since 1946.

Turning to affluent Sweden's foreign aid program he said: "It is true that Sweden presently devotes some 0.2 per cent of her gross national product to the developing countries. But I would like to stress that this aid has been increased from 50 million crowns—$10 million—to 175 million crowns—$35 million—in two years."

He said there is widespread support in Sweden for an increase in the country's foreign aid program to one per cent of the national income.

Erlander also called for wider economic cooperation within Europe.

"The process of widening economic integration between the European countries cannot be brought to a halt in the long run," he said, referring to the French veto of Britain's bid to join the European Common Market.

Sweden had applied for association in the six-nation Common Market and had planned to join after Britain.

Program Set By Students of Special Class

The local School for Retarded Children has scheduled its annual program for the public on May 16.

The yearly event, one of the seasonal highlights for the school, will be conducted at the St. Philip's Episcopal Church Parish House. Activities will start at 7:30 p. m.

Featured on the program will be musical presentations, including solos and various exercises learned by the students this year.

Daily classes are conducted at the Nazarene Church, Pickaway and Walnut Sts. The 21 pupils range from ages 6 to 18.

THE SCHOOL is composed of two classes. Mrs. Fannie Brooks and Mrs. Leora Sayre are the teachers.

Both Mrs. Sayre and Mrs. Brooks reminded that the program is open to the public.

Parma Gas Blast Case Is Appealed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Damage suits resulting from a fatal explosion and fire in Parma, a Cleveland suburb, reached the Ohio Supreme Court Tuesday.

Contractors appealed from a Cuyahoga County Appellate Court order for further proceedings in an action against them by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. The company sued to recover $400,000 paid in settling the suits after the death of Mrs. Elmer J. Smith of Parma and injury to her husband and two of their children.

The Smiths sued for about $2 million after a blast ripped their home on Dec. 27, 1956. Records showed that a gas line was damaged earlier during sewer excavations. The gas company made a settlement and sued contractors claiming the firm was only secondarily liable.

Contractors named were Pace Excavating Co., Sewer builder Joseph F. Ate, Kahn Plumbing and Heating Co. and Howard Homes, Inc.

Common pleas court dismissed the gas company's suit but the appellate court reversed.

Election Cost Set At $25 Per Voter

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—Campbell County officials figure the May 28 election could cost the county $25 a voter in precinct 2-A.

Urban renewal has left only one house in the precinct—and its occupant is expected to move before the election. That leaves two voters—Michael Maloney, the courthouse custodian, and his brother, who live upstairs at the courthouse.

Election officials say it will cost $50 to install a voting machine and keep four judges on duty at the polling place.

Wesleyan Is Granted
$25,000 by Ford Fund

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. Fund has selected Ohio Wesleyan University for a $25,000 grant. The gift is intended as an unrestricted grant for the "discretionary use of the president," according to a telegram sent President Elden T. Smith by Benson Ford of Detroit, president of the fund. The grant is expected to be used in the university's development program.

Irving Berlin Approaches 75th Birthday with Realism

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"When you get to be 75," says Irving Berlin, "you approach birthdays with realism."

So the realistic song writer plans nothing special when he reaches 75 on Saturday. He will be with his wife and the families of his three daughters, including four grandchildren, at the Berlin home in the Catskill Mountains.

"It's just another year," he commented.

Berlin conceded that the past year has been a significant one in his long career. It saw his return to Broadway with "Mr. President" after almost a decade of inaction. Now he has signed with MGM for his return to films with another Berlin cavalcade, "Say It With Music."

The Berlin saga has been one of the great American stories—the immigrant boy who became a millionaire by picking out tunes on a piano, his courtship of heiress Elfin Mackay against her father's wishes, his writing of anthem for two wars, etc.

His return to show business was also dramatic. After assisting with two films, "White Christmas" and "There's No Business Like Show Business," he became a recluse.

"I didn't feel too well," he explained during his visit here. "Part of it was physical and part was mental. You can become quite ill if you think you're ill. It was a form of depression."

"I had thought that I needed a rest, but I ended up by just being restless. The real cure was to get back to work."

He remarked that he had gone through a similar period in 1930-32. He was dissatisfied with everything he wrote and feared he had lost his touch. Out of that period came "Say It Isn't So" and "How Deep Is the Ocean?"

After some false starts, Berlin returned to Broadway this season with "Mr. President." It was his first stage musical since "Call Me Madam" in 1950, and the event was signaled by a fantastic $2,600,000 advance sale. It also met with boos from the critics.

"Nobody likes bad reviews," Berlin commented, "but I thought the ones for 'Mr. President' were a little too harsh. Some of the critics seemed not to be reviewing the show, but the people who created it."

His final comment on "Mr. President": "You strive for a smash and if you make a hit, you're grateful."

Scandinavian 'Fire Brigade' May Become U.N. Police Force

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—If the United Nations is to have a future, Secretary-General U Thant told Swedes last year, it must have the military power to keep peace. Sweden is answering the call.

Premier Tage Erlander sees a new Swedish-Danish-Norwegian emergency force earmarked for U.N. operations as the forerunner of a permanent U.N. military arm empowered to maintain peace in world trouble spots.

DEFECTOR?—The East German news agency announced that Capt. Alfred Svenson (above), missing from his post as deputy commander of the 2nd Tank Battalion, 3rd Armored Division, entered East Germany and asked for political asylum. The agency announced a like report of Sgt. Benjamin L. Cain, also missing. Svenson is from Scranton, Pa., Cain from Newburgh, N.Y.

Historical Society Fuss Heads for Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Auditor Roger Tracy called Tuesday for court action to determine whether the Ohio Historical Society should turn over its funds to the state.

He asked Atty. Gen. William Saxbe to file a declaratory judgment suit in common pleas court here. The Society contends that it has control over fees and other money received in connection with its operation.

Saxbe indicated he might go to court next week.

The Swedish leader endorsed a permanent U.N. "fire brigade" in an interview with The Associated Press.

Asked if the new Scandinavian emergency force might lead to a larger U.N. military arm of many nationalities, Erlander replied, "I would hope so."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has chosen so far to take an extremely mild—and indirect — role in the dangerous racial situation in Alabama.

Through an aide he expressed hope the problem could be solved by the people of Birmingham, where Negroes have put on the biggest campaign in the Soterhrn civil rights struggle.

Thousands of Negroes have been demonstrating for days for equal treatment. Thousands have been jailed by police who drenched demonstrators with high-velocity hoses and even used dogs against them.

Meanwhile the President awaited the outcome of efforts being made by his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy who several days ago sent two top assistants to Birmingham to try to bring white and Negro groups together.

Last fall the President appealed directly by television to Mississippians to be peaceful when U.S. marshals escorted James H. Meredith, a Negro, to the University of Mississippi, which had been ordered by a federal court to let him enter.

But by the time Kennedy made the appeal—on the night of Sept. 30, 1962—rioting had already broken out on the Ole Miss campus. It lasted until the following morning. The marshals were attacked and two men were killed.

Kennedy could use force in the Mississippi case—because a federal court order had been defied—as he did first with marshals and then with troops. It has been argued since that if he had used troops in the first place, instead of marshals, there might have been no riots.

But in Birmingham at this time white officials are not defying a court order and at the Justice Department here reporters were told the government had no legal grounds for intervening.

Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon Democrat, said there is room for the "Justice Department to make clear the federal government is not entirely powerless to intervene."

He cited a federal law which says it is a punishable offense for anyone willfully to deprive anyone of any rights or privileges guaranteed all citizens under the Constitution.

The Rev. Martin Luther King who initiated the massive demonstrations in Birmingham, said there would be no end to them until negroes had gained four things they wanted.

These are better job opportunities, desegregation of all downtown public facilities, formation of a biracial committee with authority to solve all racial problems, and the dropping of charges against the arrested demonstrators.

The riots at Ole Miss last fall, in Little Rock in 1957, and these demonstrations now are new in the experiences of U.S. presidents since Negroes were censored helpless to fight for equal treatment until the Supreme Court in 1954 ruled out public school segregation.

Kennedy, like President Eisenhower, has been very cautious about taking strong positions in these critical racial situations until compelled to by events. Kennedy demonstrated this at Ole Miss.

When he sent the marshals in with Meredith to protect him it was a half-measure which didn't work, as the riots proved — although Meredith was unharmed. In the end he had to use troops.

Eisenhower demonstrated even more caution in the events leading up to the Little Rock explosion.

On July 17 of that year he had told reporters he could imagine no circumstances "that would ever induce me to send federal troops—to enforce the orders of a court." That left him wide open.

The Little Rock racists took him at his word. They and Gov. Orval E. Faubus, through use of the Arkansas National Guard, kept Negro children out of Central High School, which a federal court had ordered integrated.

In the end Eisenhower also had to use the troops he couldn't, only two months before, imagine using.

Because of the tense conditions in the South each president has to think carefully about anything he says, but he must also weigh what may happen if he says nothing against the prospect of avoiding crisis by speaking strongly.

New Freight Rates To Idle Coal Pipeline

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Consolidation Coal Co. has announced officially that its 108-mile coal pipeline from near Cadiz, Ohio, to Cleveland will cease operating but that the pipeline will be maintained on a standby basis.

Consolidation said the decision stemmed from rate cuts by coal-hauling railroads "which will reduce the delivered cost of coal . . . below levels now prevailing."

However, the company said, the shutdown is subject to approval by the Ohio Public Utilities Commission and also hinges on approval of the new rail rates by the PUCO and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Consolidation has been delivering coal in slush form to the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.'s Eastlake power plant near Cleveland since 1957.

CEI has agreed to take delivery of 45 million tons of coal over a 10-year period. The agreement will result in mothballing the 108-mile coal pipeline from Cadiz to Eastlake, east of Cleveland.

A CEI spokesman said about 6,000 industrial customers will benefit under a coal - escalation clause.

The railroads involved are the New York Central, Pennsylvania and Nickel Plate roads. They have filed application for new rates about 25 per cent lower than current rail rates on coal hauling.

The Guadalupe range, one of the southernmost outcroppings of the Rockies, rises in southern New Mexico and extends southward 50 miles into Texas.

All dollar bills now in circulation are silver certificates.

Voter Apathy...

Four out of seven money issues before voters in the Cleveland area were defeated.

In North Olmsted, voters who approved a $2,031,000 bond issue to build a new high school last fall failed to approve a $345,000 bond issue Tuesday to equip the school. The vote was 1,518 for, 1,249 against, with 60 per cent approval needed.

In Brecksville, a $1.2 million bond issue for school building additions lost by 32 votes, 1,509 favoring, 1,059 against, with 60 per cent required for passage.

Also defeated were North Royalton's $650,000 bond issue for building additions and Brooklyn's 4-mill tax levy for additional operating funds for schools.

Passed were operating levies in Beachwood, Euclid and Olmsted Falls.

In Lake County, voters in the sprawling Willowby - Eastlake School District turned down for the third time a 7-mill operating levy. The vote was 4,406-4,149, short of the 55 per cent majority required. School authorities have said several cutbacks in operations would be necessitated if the issue failed.

Lima voters rejected two money issues—one a $6½ million urban renewal project to rebuild 4½ square blocks in the center of the city on which Lima had already spent $75,000 for preliminary studies. The vote was 5,057 for, 8,184 against. The other issue, defeated 6,793-6,368, was for a Jameon Avenue overpass over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks.

Of seven bond issues and tax levies up for vote in Stark County, only one was approved—an 11.5 mill operating levy for Perry Township schools.

Columbus was one of few larger cities having primary races for city council. A turnout of 34,982 of 163,848 eligible voters nominated eight non-partisan candidates who will vie for four seats on the council in the November election.

Columbus voters approved a city charter amendment to equalize assessment payments for water, sewage and street improvements but rejected another amendment that would have permitted the city to mortgage electric, water and sewer utilities.

Elsewhere around the state, in cities where there were contests, Marietta Mayor Don Curtis won Republican renomination for the office by defeating J. L. Griffith, but Garrett C. Brown, a newcomer, defeated Republican incumbent Earl W. Walker in a race for Belpre's GOP mayoral nomination.

Former Mayor Charles L. Babcock won the Democratic nomination for mayor, 7,477-4,433 over his nearest opponent, businessman Peter Kourmolis. Stanley Cimich, former safety director, was unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Mayor James W. Day of Parma rolled up a margin of better than 2-1 in defeating former Mayor Joseph W. Kader for the Democratic nomination for mayor. The Republican nomination went to Leonard G. Richter, who had a 3-1 margin over Joseph Tal.

In Brook Park, Mayor John Polonye won the democratic nomination over former Mayor James H. Topping.

In North Olmsted, Democratic Mayor Paul J. Gareau was renominated, defeating Albert W. Dansberg by nearly 3-1.

In Brunswick, the Democratic mayoral nomination went to Council President William Sheehan, who defeated City Auditor Alan Shaw by a narrow margin. Sheehan's November opponent will be Republican Alvin Wolff, unopposed in the primary.

In Lima, Robert E. Waltz defeated F. Stewart Elliott, 4,564-3,822, for the Municipal Court judgeship.

In Delphos, Richard F. Wulffhorst was unopposed for the mayor's nomination. Delphos voters also nominated a councilman-at-large and two councilmen.

Bluffton nominated one council candidate.

One contest was decided unofficially by a single vote.

W. Carl Tepe defeated George P. Kleb for the Democratic nomination for city auditor of Norwood, 877-876, the unofficial count showed.

Polecat Hill Slayer Slated for Parole

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Next month—after 23 years — Darwin Edgington will be permitted to leave Ohio Penitentiary on parole.

Edgington, now 50 and originally from West Union, was convicted of first-degree murder, one count, after the bodies of Craven and Gwendolyn Grooms were found in the ashes of their cabin in 1940.

The middle-aged married couple who lived about a mile east of West Union in a spot then called "Polecat Hill," had been shot. Authorities said money and whisky were taken.

Gov. James A. Rhodes commuted Edgington's sentence to second-degree murder last month, making him eligible for parole consideration. The Pardon and Parole Commission said he will be paroled about June 6.

Voter Apathy...

Four out of seven money issues before voters in the Cleveland area were defeated.

In North Olmsted, voters who approved a $2,031,000 bond issue to build a new high school last fall failed to approve a $345,000 bond issue Tuesday to equip the school. The vote was 1,518 for, 1,249 against, with 60 per cent approval needed.

In Brecksville, a $1.2 million bond issue for school building additions lost by 32 votes, 1,509 favoring, 1,059 against, with 60 per cent required for passage.

Also defeated were North Royalton's $650,000 bond issue for building additions and Brooklyn's 4-mill tax levy for additional operating funds for schools.

Passed were operating levies in Beachwood, Euclid and Olmsted Falls.

In Lake County, voters in the sprawling Willoughby - Eastlake School District turned down for the third time a 7-mill operating levy. The vote was 4,406-4,149, short of the 55 per cent majority required. School authorities have said several cutbacks in operations would be necessitated if the issue failed.

Lima voters rejected two money issues—one a $6½ million urban renewal project to rebuild 4½ square blocks in the center of the city on which Lima had already spent $75,000 for preliminary studies. The vote was 5,057 for, 8,184 against. The other issue, defeated 6,793-6,368, was for a Jameon Avenue overpass over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks.

Of seven bond issues and tax levies up for vote in Stark County, only one was approved—an 11.5 mill operating levy for Perry Township schools.

Columbus was one of few larger cities having primary races for city council. A turnout of 34,982 of 163,848 eligible voters nominated eight non-partisan candidates who will vie for four seats on the council in the November election.

Columbus voters approved a city charter amendment to equalize assessment payments for water, sewerage and street improvements but rejected another amendment that would have permitted the city to mortgage electric, water and sewerage utilities.

Elsewhere around the state, in cities where there were contests, Marietta Mayor Don Curtis won Republican renomination for the office by defeating J. L. Griffith, but Garrett C. Brown, a newcomer, defeated Republican incumbent Earl W. Walker in a race for Belpre's GOP mayoral nomination.

Former Mayor Charles L. Babcock won the Democratic nomination for mayor, 7,477-4,433 over his nearest opponent, businessman Peter Kourmolis. Stanley Cimich, former safety director, was unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Mayor James W. Day of Parma rolled up a margin of better than 2-1 in defeating former Mayor Joseph W. Kader for the Democratic nomination for mayor. The Republican nomination went to Leonard G. Richter, who had a 3-1 margin over Joseph Tal.

In Brook Park, Mayor John Polonye won the democratic nomination over former Mayor James H. Topping.

In North Olmsted, Democratic Mayor Paul J. Gareau was renominated, defeating Albert W. Dansberg by nearly 3-1.

In Brunswick, the Democratic mayoral nomination went to Council President William Sheehan, who defeated City Auditor Alan Shaw by a narrow margin. Sheehan's November opponent will be Republican Alvin Wolff, unopposed in the primary.

In Lima, Robert E. Waltz defeated F. Stewart Elliott, 4,564-3,822, for the Municipal Court judgeship.

In Delphos, Richard F. Wulffhorst was unopposed for the mayor's nomination. Delphos voters also nominated a councilman-at-large and two councilmen.

Bluffton nominated one council candidate.

One contest was decided unofficially by a single vote.

W. Carl Tepe defeated George P. Kleb for the Democratic nomination for city auditor of Norwood, 877-876, the unofficial count showed.

Polecat Hill Slayer Slated for Parole

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Next month—after 23 years — Darwin Edgington will be permitted to leave Ohio Penitentiary on parole.

Edgington, now 50 and originally from West Union, was convicted of first-degree murder, one count, after the bodies of Craven and Gwendolyn Grooms were found in the ashes of their cabin in 1940.

The middle-aged married couple who lived about a mile east of West Union in a spot then called "Polecat Hill," had been shot. Authorities said money and whisky were taken.

Gov. James A. Rhodes commuted Edgington's sentence to second-degree murder last month, making him eligible for parole consideration. The Pardon and Parole Commission said he will be paroled about June 6.

These British schoolboys are all for a cane shortage.

English Students Not Sad Over Lack of Tonking Canes

By JOSEPH WHITT
Central Press Association
Correspondent

LONDON — "I import canes," the Englishman said. "And there's such a serious shortage in them, it's alarming! I know — we've been in this business for four generations."

He was talking about tonking canes, those that come 11,000 miles from China and are used to beat British schoolboys who misbehave.

"You'd have to wait a week for ordinary straight canes," he said. "And eight weeks for those with crook handles."

"The straight are cheaper — four pounds ($11) a gross. Those with handles cost five pounds. The handle is classed as a luxury by the tax collector. So there's a purchase tax.

"Some fancy schools pay more, they want all the rough edges smoothed off, as a safeguard against injuring the boys."

"However, business isn't good. The demand for canes is falling off. Things were certainly different in the olden days!"

The shortage in Tonking canes will not alarm English schoolboys, or for that matter most of their teachers. They generally agree with Sir David Eccles, governing head of education, who said: "I consider the use of the cane an admission of failure on the part of the teacher. A good teacher will find another answer to problems of discipline."

"Reports show that three times as many children from caning schools appeared before juvenile courts as from the non-caning schools," said a teacher. "And that offenses dropped 20 per cent when caning was stopped."

"Can you name one top school — like Eton or Harrow — that has officially abolished caning?" the teacher was asked.

"At Harrow the cane is given by the head boy (student monitor) — but only with other monitors' permission."

"Prince Charles attends Gordonstoun," the teacher said. "In that school only the headmaster may give the cane and then only very rarely, for serious offenses."

Price-Support Rate for Wheat Is Established

The price-support rate for 1963-crop wheat in Pickaway County will be $1.84 per bushel, Galen D. Mowery, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, has announced. Information on price-support rates for wheat stored in terminals is also available at the ASCS County office.

The chairman pointed out that the national average support price for 1963-crop wheat is $2 per bushel to producers participating in the voluntary acreage reduction program.

The county and terminal support loan rates, however, are based on the national average loan price of $1.82 per bushel; the remaining 18 cents per bushel of the support price will be an in-kind payment to participants based on the normal production of the farm's acreage for harvest. This 18-cent payment is the same throughout the country; it does not vary by counties as the loan rate does.

Producers who do not participate in the 1963 program, but who plant within their 1963 acreage allotments, will be eligible only for price-support loans and purchase agreements based on the $1.82 national average loan price.

For major producing areas, as in the past, county rates for 1963 generally reflect terminal rates less handling and freight charges needed to get the wheat to terminals. County and terminal rates are adjusted up or down for grade and quality to determine support prices for individual producers.

Price-support premium and discount schedules for different grades and qualities will be announced later.

Since the average loan portion of the 1963 crop support price is 18 cents per bushel lower than the 1962 loan average, all terminal rates reflect this difference. Additional downward adjustments have been made for certain terminals to more nearly reflect historical cash market price differentials.

Curb, Gutter Plans Okayed by Council

City Council last night stamped its approval on two resolutions calling for the construction of curbs and gutters in two sections of Circleville.

The two areas are a section of Mingo St. and approximately six streets in the northend. Both resolutions were adopted on second reading. They were held to first reading at the last Council session, mainly for the purpose of preparing additional legislation.

Fourth Ward Councilman Boyd Horn refused to vote on either resolution. He said he did not feel all people concerned with the two projects had been contacted and given a chance to express their views.

However, the remaining six so-lons gave the measures affirmative nods. They indicated that no objections to the projects had been directed to them.

THE MINGO ST. job will extend from E. Mound to E. Main. Properties already having curbs and gutters will be excluded.

Boundaries for the northend job are:

1. East side of Atwater Ave. from Wilson Ave. to Sunset Drive and on the west side of same from Wilson Ave. to the north side of Lot 18 of the Frederick L. Pump Subdivision;
2. Both sides of Sunset Drive from Atwater Ave. to Lone Pine Road.
3. Both sides of Lone Pine Road

from Cedar Heights Road to Ed-ward Road.

4. Both sides of Cedar Heights Road from the intersection of Lone Pine Road eastward to the intersection of Georgia Road. The new curb will tie into the existing curb on Cedar Heights Road from Lone Pine Road westward to Atwater Ave.

5. Both sides of Lynwood Ave. from Cedar Heights Road south to the existing curb.

6. West side of Georgia Road from Cedar Heights Road north to the existing curb.

The resolution noted that lots having existing curbs and gutters will be excluded.

Plans, specifications and estimated costs of both projects, as prepared by the City Service Director, are on file in the office of the Clerk of Council.

The resolutions directed Clerk Robert Shadley to submit written notice that the curb and gutter measures have been enacted. Property owners have 30 days after notification to construct the facilities. Failure to comply means Council shall have the work done, with cost assessed against the respective properties.

A third resolution of the evening appointed three members to an equalizing board to hear objections to tentative assessments of the cost for Circleville Sewer District No. 2. The appointments hinge on whether or not the sein lower rates for our member-consumers

Does it seem strange to you that a utility would believe that the best way of doing business is to offer electric power to its member-consumers at the lowest rates possible? Not at all — not when you consider that the member-consumers own the company — and they pay for service, not profits to absentee stockholders.

But the basic reason our company philosophy aims at lower rates is because we establish low rates in the first place. If that seems confusing, consider this:

The lower our rates, the more our member-consumers will use electric power, the more we can lower our rates!

It's the same old happy cycle of large-volume demand lowering the cost. South-Central has happily been able to institute three rate decreases in the past 32 months simply because the overall use of electric power by its consumers has increased.

And the more it continues to increase — the lower our rates will become.

Curb, Gutter Plans Okayed by Council

City Council last night stamped its approval on two resolutions calling for the construction of curbs and gutters in two sections of Circleville.

The two areas are a section of Mingo St. and approximately six streets in the northend. Both resolutions were adopted on second reading. They were held to first reading at the last Council session, mainly for the purpose of preparing additional legislation.

Fourth Ward Councilman Boyd Horn refused to vote on either resolution. He said he did not feel all people concerned with the two projects had been contacted and given a chance to express their views.

However, the remaining six sections gave the measures affirmative nods. They indicated that no objections to the projects had been directed to them.

THE MINGO ST. job will extend from E. Mound to E. Main. Properties already having curbs and gutters will be excluded.

Boundaries for the northend job are:

1. East side of Atwater Ave. from Wilson Ave. to Sunset Drive and on the west side of same from Wilson Ave. to the north side of Lot 18 of the Frederick L. Pump Subdivision;
2. Both sides of Sunset Drive from Atwater Ave. to Lone Pine Road.
3. Both sides of Lone Pine Road

from Cedar Heights Road to Edward Road.

4. Both sides of Cedar Heights Road from the intersection of Lone Pine Road eastward to the intersection of Georgia Road. The new curb will tie into the existing curb on Cedar Heights Road from Lone Pine Road westward to Atwater Ave.

5. Both sides of Lynwood Ave. from Cedar Heights Road south to the existing curb.

6. West side of Georgia Road from Cedar Heights Road north to the existing curb.

The resolution noted that lots having existing curbs and gutters will be excluded.

Plans, specifications and estimated costs of both projects, as prepared by the City Service Director, are on file in the office of the Clerk of Council.

The resolutions directed Clerk Robert Shadley to submit written notice that the curb and gutter measures have been enacted. Property owners have 30 days after notification to construct the facilities. Failure to comply means Council shall have the work done, with cost assessed against the respective properties.

A third resolution of the evening appointed three members to an equalizing board to hear objections to tentative assessments of the cost for Circleville Sewer District No. 2. The appointments hinge on whether or not the se-

A DATE for hearing of objections to the tentative assessments was set for 1 p. m. May 22 in the Council Chambers. Clerk Shadley reported that 30 protests have been received to date.

A report will be submitted to Council following the equalization meeting.

in lower rates for our member-consumers

Does it seem strange to you that a utility would believe that the best way of doing business is to offer electric power to its member-consumers at the lowest rates possible? Not at all — not when you consider that the member-consumers own the company — and they pay for service, not profits to absentee stockholders.

But the basic reason our company philosophy aims at lower rates is because we establish low rates in the first place. If that seems confusing, consider this:

The lower our rates, the more our member-consumers will use electric power, the more we can lower our rates!

It's the same old happy cycle of large-volume demand lowering the cost. South-Central has happily been able to institute three rate decreases in the past 32 months simply because the overall use of electric power by its consumers has increased.

And the more it continues to increase — the lower our rates will become.

Team rosters have been completed for the Little League Majors, it was announced yesterday by Forrest Brown, secretary of the Circleville Youth Baseball Program, Inc.

Managers have been named for all teams with the exception of The Herald. A total of 81 youths will compete in the loop.

The six team league has the same sponsors returning. They are Ralston Purina, The Herald, Bingham Drugs, American Legion, BPO Elks, Coca Cola.

Coca Cola is the defending champion in the league.

PLAY IN THE LL majors is scheduled to begin June 3 with the Elks and the American Legion meeting on the little league diamond at Ted Lewis Park.

Darby Wins Pitcher Duel At Jackson

The Darby Trojans combined five Jackson errors with four hits to down the hosting Wildcats 3-0 in a county league baseball game that lasted only an hour and one-half.

The tilt turned into a pitcher's duel with freshman Danny Bowen of the Trojans gaining the win. He allowed four hits, fanned nine.

Meredith O'Dell, Jackson's sophomore southpaw hurler, turned in an almost equally good performance with seven strikeouts and limiting the Trojans to four hits, including doubles by Charlie Brown and David Rowland.

Neither pitcher allowed a base on balls.

Darby scored two runs in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Leading hitter for the losers was Brad Thompson, who was two for two at the plate. He had a double for the Wildcats.

Tonight the winless Wildcats play a previously postponed tilt at Williamsport and Thursday they play at Monroe.

Darby 3-2 in loop play has a league tilt scheduled Tuesday with Logan Elm, 2-3.

Top Golfers Prep For $60,000 Test

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A pro amateur tournament today precedes the opening of the $60,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament on Thursday.

Nobody turned in a score card, but Jack Nicklaus was one of golf's elite who toured the Colonial course Tuesday in warm up rounds.

The field was cut to 66 when Ed Furgol was sidetracked by dental surgery and business commitments caused Paul Harney to cancel.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer showed up for a brief practice session. Nicklaus, Palmer and Tony Lema have been established as the favorites.

Circleville Entry Repeats at Beulah

Banteel, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Adkins of Circleville, has won his last two races at Beulah Park, the latest victory coming in the $1,200 featured race Tuesday.

Ridden by Paul Ward and trained by W. B. Alexander, the winner took the lead in the stretch and paid his backers $5.60.

It was the fifth straight win for Ward and Alexander working as a team.

Tiger Jr. High Trackmen Win Triangular Meet

It's getting to be an old story, but one Circleville Junior High School track coaches John Adler and Jim Lint enjoy hearing.

The Tiger cub cindersmen established five new track records yesterday, winning a triangular meet at Lancaster.

The Roundtowners scored 57 5-6 points while Ewing Junior High had 41 1-3 and Sherman had 23 5-6.

Tom Jenkins, a 13-year-old eighth grader, cut one second off his record in the 440 yard run to bring the time to 57 seconds flat. And for the first time this year he bettered 100-feet in the discus, again breaking his own mark. The new distance is 100-feet, 3 1/2 inches.

HE ALSO anchored the record breaking 880-yard relay team. Dan Gibbs, Larry Payne and Bill Pritchard, along with Jenkins, knocked 4.3 seconds off the record, winning in 1:46.2 yesterday.

The 440 - yard relay team, composed of Gibbs, Payne, Pritchard and Tim Stonerock, blazed to a win in 50.6 to establish a new mark.

And for the second consecutive week George Hill and Terry Martin finished first and second in the 880 yard run, both bettering the old record. Hill's 2:21.1 will go in the books for the Tiger Junior High track competitors, while Martin's 2:27 was 1.6 faster than the mark Hill set last week.

Other firsts for the Tiny Tigers were earned by Tim Stonerock, who dashed to an 11.7 win in the 100 yard event and Brad Marshall, who leaped 16-feet, 3-4 inches in the broad jump and Rod Sines who cleared 7-feet, 6-inches in the pole vault.

The Tigers had a total of seven firsts, seven seconds one third and three fourths.

Saturday Circleville Junior High will be one of nearly 25 schools competing at Greenfield Invitational. Qualifying heats begin at 10 a. m. and finals are slated for the afternoon.

Teays Valley Vikings Tops In 4-Team Track Competition

Teays Valley thincads won a quadrangular track meet yesterday, piling up 97 5-6 points on 10 firsts, seven seconds, three thirds fourths and five fifths.

Other teams participating on the Vikings' cinders were St. Charles, 45 5-6, West Jefferson, 32 1-3 and The Plains of Mt. Sterling, 21.

Double winners for the host team were Ron Will and Jeff Cline.

Will established a new field record when he heaved the discus, 120-foot, 2-inches. He won the shot event with a toss of 41-feet, 4-inches.

Running a measured mile over the Teays Valley track, Cline posted a time of 5:03 while his 2:21.6 in the 880-yard run was also for the correct distance.

THE VIKING track was surveyed 440-yards on the outside lane, making it shorter than an actual quarter-mile track. For the first time this year the distances with the exception of the relay events were run over measured distances, making times official.

Single winners for the Vikings were Paul Hartley in the high jump, clearing 5-feet, 8-inches and Bill Pritchard in the pole vault with a 10-foot, 6-inch effort and Miller in the 180-yard low hurdles in 23.35.

Members of the winning 880-yard relay team were Seymour, Pritchard, Hollenback, and Miller

Monroe Indians Earn 7-2 Loop Win over Deers

Monroe, virtually assured of the Pickaway County Baseball League championship, defeated Williamsport-Atlanta, 7-2 yesterday on the Deers' diamond.

Tom Hamman and Neil Coleman, a pair of freshmen, combined to hurl a neat five-hitter for the losers. But a six-error sixth inning gave the winners five runs.

Hamman fanned three Monroe sluggers and walked none. He came on in relief in the sixth, whiffed two and issued one base on balls.

Gary Moore went the route for the Indians on the mound, fanning seven and allowing two hits. He was backed up by good defensive play by the Monroe infield.

TOM SEELEY was three-for-five for the Indians, including a double.

Tonight Jackson and Williamsport tangle in a game previously rained out and tomorrow the Deers host Logan Elm.

Monroe plays Licking Heights in a Central District game today and tomorrow will attempt to clinch the county crown by hosting winless Jackson.

With two games remaining for Dick Everman's charges, the only county teams with even a mathematical chance of gaining a share of the title are Williamsport and Darby. Each School has only two losses but the Deers have five games remaining while the Trojans must play three.

They must win all remaining games while the Indians would have to lose both contests in their schedule.

Braves Lose Final SVC Tilt

Piketon scored two runs in the top of the seventh inning to post a 4-2 win over host school, Logan Elm in a Scioto Valley Conference tilt yesterday.

The tilt marked the end of the SVC season. Paint Valley won the loop with a perfect 3-0 record.

Jim Hicks hurled the game for the losers, doing an effective job of scattering five hits. He whiffed seven Red Streak batters and walked only four.

However his teammates failed to get the hits. A single by Bob Stant was the lone Logan Elm hit and it drove in one run. The other run was scored on a wild pitch. ERRORS played a big role in the Piketon scoring.

The Braves finished the SVC with a record of one win and two losses. In the county league they are 2-3 and in tournament play they won once and were defeated twice.

Thursday they travel to Williamsport for a tilt with the Deers who are presently sporting a 1-1 league slate.

Braves Lose Final SVC Tilt

Piketon scored two runs in the top of the seventh inning to post a 4-2 win over host school, Logan Elm in a Scioto Valley Conference tilt yesterday.

The tilt marked the end of the SVC season. Paint Valley won the loop with a perfect 3-0 record.

Jim Hicks hurled the game for the losers, doing an effective job of scattering five hits. He whiffed seven Red Streak batters and walked only four.

However his teammates failed to get the hits. A single by Bob Stant was the lone Logan Elm hit and it drove in one run. The other run was scored on a wild pitch. ERRORS played a big role in the Piketon scoring.

The Braves finished the SVC with a record of one win and two losses. In the county league they are 2-3 and in tournament play they won once and were defeated twice.

Thursday they travel to Williamsport for a tilt with the Deers who are presently sporting a 1-1 league slate.

Manitoba hunters are allowed to bag two deer during the year, provided one is taken with a bow and arrow.

Giants Prove To Be Terror On Road Trips

San Francisco Grabs Lead in NL as They Thump Braves, 5-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don't invite the San Francisco Giants over for a friendly baseball game. They're liable to wreck the place.

The Giants, who were everybody's friend on the road last year, have turned into traveling terrors this season. As a result, they are in first place in the National League today, a game over Pittsburgh.

The Giants did their ungracious visitor act again Tuesday night at Milwaukee, as Juan Marichal pitched a four-hitter and Felipe Alou, Ed Bailey and Jose Pagan spanked homers in a 5-1 victory.

That gave the Giants an 11-2 mark on the road this year. Last season they were only 42-41 in their traveling suits, and they had to win the pennant in the playoff at Los Angeles to go over .500.

Oddly enough, the defending champions, who were inhospitable at an amazing 61-21 clip in San Francisco last season, are only 6-8 in the Candlestick Park wind tunnel this season.

The Pirates fell back at Chicago, where the Cubs trimmed them 5-4. The St. Louis Cards also lost ground, as the Dodgers trampled them 11-1. Both are a game back of the Giants, with the Pirates percentage points ahead of the Cards.

Houston whipped Cincinnati 3-2 and the New York Mets measured Philadelphia 3-1.

In the American League, the Boston Red Sox moved into first place by dumping Baltimore 5-1, while the Chicago White Sox were edging the Kansas City A's 2-1 and the Detroit Tigers were taming the New York Yankees 6-2. Los Angeles beat Minnesota 2-0, on a three-hitter by Bob Turley, and Cleveland took Washington 7-3 in 11 innings.

The rampaging Cubs racked up their fourth straight and seventh in the last eight against the Pirates, in the only daylight game. Larry Jackson got the victory, his fourth, and Ernie Banks hit his sixth homer for the Cubs. Two Pirates' errors helped the Cubs to two runs in the seventh and Merritt Ranew doubled home the clinching run in the eighth.

Sandy Koufax came back after a two-week absence and pitched eight sparkling innings for the Dodgers. Koufax had not worked since he suffered a muscle spasm on April 23, but the left-hander allowed only five hits, struck out four and walked just one for his third victory. Another Dodger returnee, Tommy Davis who missed most of the first three weeks of the season hit his first homer of the year. Ray Washburn was the loser, after winning five straight for the Cards.

Bob Purkey, ailing with a sore shoulder, made his first start of the year for the Cincinnati Reds and went 5 1/3 good innings—the only good news of the night for the Reds. Bill Henry, and then Joey Jay tried to protect a 2-1 lead, but Jay was tagged for a run-scoring single by Bob Lillis and Rusty Staub in the eighth inning for the loss.

Ray, a 21-14 pitcher last year, now is 0-6 for Cincinnati.

The Mets jumped Art Mahaffey for three runs in the first inning, all on homers, and little Al Jackson made them stand up for his third victory. Charlie Neal got an inside-the-park homer when Philie center fielder Don Demeter fell down trying to field his line

Hypnotist Gets Main Credit For Aiding Injured Cager

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Last winter fans, teammates and University of Utah coach Jack Gardner were electrified at the amazing comeback of Allen Holmes, who had been told he'd never play basketball again because of a mangled leg.

Today Holmes gave his hypnotist most of the credit for his rise from the wheelchair.

Dr. Thomas A. Clawson, the hypnotist, said: "He wanted to play basketball. And it is necessary that the patient provide the motive."

Let's go back. Allen Holmes went from Phoenix High School to Weber Junior College at Ogden, Utah, where he won junior college All-America honors. The next year he completed a celebrated season with the University of Utah, which lost in the NCAA playoffs.

Then came the automobile accident in which his right leg was mangled. He watched the next season from a wheelchair, and later on crutches. He was given his senior blanket, dropped from the roster, and supposedly forgotten.

But Holmes wanted to play. At the beginning of the 1962-63 season he began working out with the squad. The other players tolerated him and the coach pitied him, as he hobbled about the floor.

Utah, without the great center, Bill (The Hill) McGill, was in a losing season, and Coach Gardner commented one day:

"I may have to use Holmes at center. He's the best I've got."

A great ovation went up for Allen Holmes when he played his first five minutes. Then he played a full half, three quarters, and finally a full game. His comeback was phenomenal and he finished the season as the club hero.

What happened?

"I was discouraged," Holmes said. "I thought of quitting. I was lame. I could shoot off only one foot. I could not stop and start.

"Then a friend suggested that I see a friend of his."

The friend's friend was Dr. Clawson, a specialist in internal medicine who also is a consultant in medical hypnosis.

Says Holmes:

"With the approval of the other doctors who had worked on my leg, Dr. Clawson and I went to work—with hypnotic treatments.

"Dr. Clawson gave me to understand that he could not give me more talent than I once had, but that he could give me the confidence to call completely upon the talent I now had.

"The coach knew nothing about it. Only one or two teammates knew what I was doing. I went when I needed help most—just before practice or before a game. Then Dr. Clawson taught me a simple thing of self-hypnosis.

"While they were playing the National Anthem and I had a few seconds of my own I would concentrate. Sometimes at halftime I would do it again—or whenever I could.

"More and more my injured right leg came back to normal use. I forgot about jumping off the wrong foot. No one blocked my shots, as they did at first. I could fake as fast as ever—and didn't have to play a fake by favoring my sore leg.

"I never regained full use of my lame leg and possibly I never will. But I feel that I was able to get everything out of it that there was left in it. Moreover, I forgot about my handicap. It was easy. There was no pain."

Balk Rule Is Modified

But Umpires Retain Final Word in Fuss

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball's mighty have spoken from the summit about the balk, but as usual the umpires appear to be having the last word.

Commissioner Ford Frick and the two major league presidents met Tuesday and amended the balk rule to read that while a full stop will still be required, there will be no time requirement on the stop. The rule—before amendment—read that pitchers must come to a full stop of at least one second before delivering a pitch to a batter with one or more runners on the base.

The move was aimed at cutting down the wide difference in balks called in the two leagues. The National League umpires have been observing the one-second requirement and had called 96 balks, compared to only nine in the American League through Monday's games.

A few hours later, the NL umpires promptly called two balks—one against Bob Purkey of Cincinnati and one against Ray Washburn of St. Louis. The balk against Washburn scored a run for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

None was called in the American League.

Actually, the summit meeting did not propose to eliminate balk calls.

NL President Warren Giles, who set off the balk rumpus by ordering his umpires to watch them closely this season, said after the meeting:

"I don't like to see so many balks. But I can't tell the umpires not to call them."

Frick said: "The pitcher still must stop."

Joe Cronin, president of the American League, who has been detected smirking over the balk troubles of the rival league, said he did not expect to see any increase in the number of such calls in his circuit.

"We are advising our umpires to be on the alert, as usual," the AL president said. "Our main concern all along has been to guard against the quick pitch."

Views on TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—A new rock 'n' roll record called "Mother, Please" is achieving a certain amount of popularity with the young crowd these days, but is most notable for the fact that it borrows its title and theme from a semi-retired television commercial.

The commercial itself was launched over a year ago, part of a batch advertising a headache remedy. It shows a young woman snapping irritably: "Mother, please! I'd rather do it myself!" Then, later, headache gone, she offers her mother a cup of tea and there is a smiling fade-out.

There were others in the initial series: a young mother screaming at her child; a young husband snarling at his wife about their sons' bicycle in the driveway; a woman annoyed at the neighborhood kids.

Now, Mother and the others are rarely seen because a new batch of irritable headache sufferers commercials has been coaxed up. But "Mother, Please" continues to have impact. It is a gag-line used by television comedians and teen-agers. It has been the basis for a number of comedy sketches.

"It's curious, the way that thing caught on and stays around," commented an advertising executive. "I suppose it just professes that by the time the client starts pounding the desk and demanding new copy in his commercials, the good old public is barely beginning to notice the old ones."

Nobody seems to have figured a sure-fire way to catch the public's fancy, but when something like "Mother, Please" occurs, the company is usually pleased and the advertising agency is ecstatic. Recommended tonight: "Israel—It is No Fable," BS, 7:30-8:30 (EDT)—documentary in Israel's 15 years of independence.

Vanishing Injun, Chief Plan Powwow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gene Green, the reluctant Cleveland Indian pinchhitter, is expected to fly here today for a meeting with club officials to find out his future.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts said Tuesday he thinks "everything will be all right" after he talks with Green, the 29-year-old outfielder who jumped the team when it left Los Angeles Sunday night for Washington and has been suspended by the club.

But Green, still in Los Angeles Tuesday, said "I doubt if there is much chance of settling the issue, but I'm going to give it a try in my meeting with Tebbetts."

The issue, as Green sees it, is an old one in baseball—"play me or trade me."

Green, who hit .280 for the Indians last year, mostly as a right handed pinchhitter against left handed pitching, said he wants to play regularly for the Indians or be traded.

Tebbetts sympathized with Green's desire to play. "Everybody wants to play," said the Indian manager. "You're not big league if you don't."

But, he added, Green's future is as a pinchhitter.

Birmingham Seen Integration's Key

EDITOR'S NOTE — Reiman Morin has won two Pulitzer Prizes as an Associated Press reporter, one for reporting of the Little Rock, Ark., integration crisis. He has covered the civil rights campaign from the beginning—Little Rock, Clinton, Tenn., Oxford, Miss., and now Birmingham.

By RELMAN MORIN
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Little Rock was one school, Central High, and eight Negro children. Oxford was one Negro student, James H. Meredith, enrolling in the University of Mississippi.

Birmingham is a whole city, a bright, handsome community of nearly 350,000 in the heart of the Deep South—the biggest target, by far, of desegregationists in the anguished and continuing battle over civil rights.

This is what gives special meaning to the quiet words of a Negro clergyman: "If we break through here, we break through everywhere."

This is the core of the story in Birmingham today, the determined drive for a breakthrough. Negro leaders say it means, primarily, desegregation of downtown eating places, equal job opportunities, the hiring of qualified—stress the adjective—Negroes in downtown stores.

"The organization won't settle for less than 80 per cent desegregation downtown," said one.

He added, "We're not even talking about the schools now, just the stores and the lunchrooms." The conversation takes place in the corridor of the Baptist church at 16th Street and 6th Avenue, one center of the "breakthrough movement."

The church is jam-packed, on the ground floor and the balcony, with about 1,400 Negroes. Others listen through partly opened side and front doors. They applaud loudly when the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., symbolic leader of the civil rights movement, calls on President Kennedy to "take a forthright stand."

They begin singing, clapping with the rhythm of a hymn, "something's got a hold of me." They seem good humored. They laugh and wave their palm-fronds when another speaker describes an incident in Ingram Park, fronting the church, a center of the disturbances in Birmingham in the past few days.

"These children," he says, "ran after the policeman so that he wouldn't arrest them. But he wouldn't arrest them no matter how hard they ran."

The Birmingham jails already are filled to capacity. More than 2,400 Negroes have been arrested in the past few days.

King goes to two other churches. They, too, are packed to the rafters. There is more singing and more exhorting.

The streets of Birmingham are supremely quiet. It is not much of a night-life city, anyway, and it looks little different now than on any night. There are no clusters of men on the street corners—as there were in the first few nights in Oxford after Meredith entered the university—and no signs of tensions as there were at Little Rock.

Administration Watches 'Bama

Kennedys in Touch
With Developments

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration leaders resume their long-distance vigil today over the tense racial situation in Birmingham, Ala., with President Kennedy on record as hoping for a local solution.

The President and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, his brother, worked on a late standby basis at the White House Tuesday night, awaiting reports from Justice Department officials in Birmingham. Headed by Burke Marshall, assistant attorney general in charge of the department's Civil Rights Division, these officials sought to promote a solution to the Birmingham problem through face-to-face discussions by local white and Negro leaders.

Even as state patrolmen arrived in Birmingham Tuesday to help control mass Negro demonstrations against segregation in the city, the White House reported that Marshall had succeeded in bringing leaders of both races together for their first meeting.

The Justice Department remained silent on what progress, if any, was made at the session. But Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant White House news secretary, told reporters: "The President continues to hope that this situation can be resolved by the people of Birmingham themselves and this, of course, would be the most ideal solution."

Government officials refused to discuss any possible government action in the event of failure of local leaders to achieve peaceful settlement of the dispute.

Court Upholds Ohio's Revised Fair Trade Law

Tribunal Vote Split
Over Pricing of
Name Brand Items

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court upheld today Ohio's revised fair trade law designed to sustain retail prices of name brand products.

The 3-4 decision prevailed because the votes of at least six of the seven supreme court judges are required to overturn an appellate court ruling of constitutionality.

Cuyahoga County Appellate Court had reversed a common pleas court decision that the 1959 fair trade laws were unconstitutional.

The lower court rulings came in a declaratory judgment action by Hudson Distributors, Inc., a so-called cut-rate retailer with stores in Cleveland, against Upjohn Co. and Eli Lilly Co., drug manufacturers.

The high court previously overturned state fair trade laws but the legislature revised them in 1959 to meet court objections. The revised laws were enacted over the veto of then Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

The new version made it illegal to sell trademarked merchandise at a price below any established minimum.

Today's decision by Judge Lynn B. Griffith was concurred in by Chief Justice Kingsley A. Taft and Judge Paul M. Herbert. Dissenting were judges Charles B. Zimmerman, John M. Matthias, C. William O'Neill, and Rankin Gibson.

Judge Griffith's decision said in part: "In the first place, this is not price fixing as commonly understood in the law."

"Here we have the producer of a commodity, which is in free and open competition with other goods of the same nature, fixing the price only of his own commodity, and not a fixing of prices for all commodities in the same field."

"Here if a producer fixes his prices too high the consumer will turn to other products for his needs."

Judge Zimmerman wrote a dissenting opinion. He said the new act "possesses the same vulnerability as did the old act since, in effect, it attempts arbitrarily to bind nonsigners of price-fixing contracts by artificial and unauthorized legislative fiat."

The first university press was established at Cornell University in 1869.

79th Birthday Noted Today By Truman

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Harry S. Truman, who says he wishes people would forget about his birthdays, turns 79 today—obviously tickled they remember.

The anniversaries "only make me a year older," he remarked Tuesday, but you wouldn't know it, unless you observed that he doesn't walk quite as much as he used to.

The former president was to begin a busy day by greeting 10,000 or more fellow Baptists at Municipal Auditorium. They are messengers (delegates) to the 1963 Southern Baptist Convention.

At a luncheon in a downtown hotel he expects to hear, by telephone, from President Kennedy, Chief Justice Earl Warren and comedian Jack Benny, an old friend who delights in exchanging quips with Truman.

On the guest list for the luncheon were Govs. John M. Dalton of Missouri and Frank B. Morrison of Nebraska; Abraham Harman, Israel's ambassador to the United States; Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.; Lawrence W. Wetherby, former governor of Kentucky and Charles Murphy, undersecretary of agriculture.

Truman was laid up a while last January after a hernia operation, but since his recovery he's been busier than ever.

Stock Market Climbs Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Selected issues won speculative favor as the stock market advanced in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Gains of most key stocks were fractional but there were wider moves among a number of the more volatile issues.

General Motors, moving ahead fractionally, touched a series of historic peaks and paced the other motors to a slight rise.

Steels were unchanged to a bit higher. Oils recovered. A generally higher trend prevailed among tobaccos, rails, utilities, airlines, electronics, aerospace issues and electrical equipments.

Nonferrous metals were irregular with Kennecott and U.S. Smelting weak.

Merger reports helped some of the rails.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .9 at 270.4 with industrials up 1.6, rails up .5, and utilities up .2.

Council Cool On Move for Annexation

Renewed efforts calling for a housing project and eventual annexation along Walnut Creek Pike met with rather cool reception last night in City Council.

A delegation representing Jay Enterprises, Inc., of Columbus appeared before the solons, with the main purpose of asking Council's opinion on possible annexation and extension of city facilities. The lawmakers, not immediately receptive to the proposal, referred the matter to its service committee for further study.

The land involved, comprising about 91 acres on the southeast side of Walnut Creek Pike and formerly owned by David Glick, was purchased several months ago by Jay Enterprises. Spokesmen have indicated the firm is ready to move ahead with development plans if the overall project is acceptable to the city.

Annexation and extension of utility services were the big questions last night. Council expressed a former negative attitude on both factors, although a study completed in February indicated the city would be able to provide sewage facilities to some extent to the area.

HOWEVER, the solons hinted that annexation would be a big step — one that requires considerable more study. Solicitor Kenneth Robbins also reminded that engineers have described current sewer lines in the area as already loaded to capacity.

Chief spokesman for the development firm was Warren McFadden, a representative of U.S. Steels home building division. McFadden said his intentions were to find the most feasible methods of initiating the development here. He said his firm is seeking a spirit of cooperation with emphasis on offering Circleville a housing program of desired qualities.

The spokesman said the Carroll Hill firm of Columbus
